BRAZILIAN REBELS REPORT ADVANCE AT FLORIANOPOLIS

Island City, Capital of State of Santa Catharina, Is Sole Federal Stronghold in South.

LOYALISTS DRIVEN FROM MAINLAND

Power Lines Cut, Insurgents Say, by Capture of Estreito—Invaders Plan to Mine Channel.

By the Associated Press. PORTO ALEGRE, Brazil, Oct. 19.—The rebel siege about Florianopolis, sole Federal stronghold in southern Brazil, was so strong today that Federal troops withdrew from the mainland across the bridge to the island on which the city is situated.

Revolutionary forces under Gen. Waldemar Lima and Ptolomeo Ansa Brazil yesterday morning occupied Estreito, on a mainland point opposite Florianopolis, and advanced control of the power lines which supply Florianopolis.

The power was shut off, a rebel communiqué says, and the city was dark last night. Osvaldo Aranha, temporary President of the State of Rio Grande do Sul, said an attempt would be made to mine the channel of Santa Catharina, between Florianopolis and the mainland, so as to bottle up Federal warships using it as a base and prevent their bombarding rebel coast towns.

Florianopolis is a city of about 40,000 population and is the capital of the State of Santa Catharina. It is on the island of Santa Catharina, which is connected with the mainland by the Santa Catharina suspension bridge in the world. The city is protected by several small forts and, remaining loyal to the Government, has proved a thorn in the side of the rebels who have sought to concentrate their entire forces on the Parana-Sao Paulo front.

From Bello Horizonte announcement is made of addition of an important state to the rebel list, that of Espirito Santo, on the east coast between Rio Bahia and the Federal capital, Rio de Janeiro. The announcement says Victoria, capital, has been taken and that the entire state is in rebel hands.

Military headquarters in Bello Horizonte also claim an advance into the State of Bahia from its southwest, where the cities and towns of Montalvo, Guarany, Caetanopolis, and Condeuba have fallen to advancing Minas Gerais troops. Meanwhile the advance of Capt. Juares Tavora, on Bahia from the State of Sergipe continues.

Rebel sources say their "advance" along the Sao Paulo-Parana front, where a battle for the rich State of Sao Paulo is in progress, continues.

SUPREME COURT CONSIDERS MINNESOTA PRESS GAG LAW

It Will Pass on Its Jurisdiction After Hearing Argument on Suppression of Newspaper.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The appeal of J. M. Near, one of the publishers of the Saturday Press, against the suppression of the paper under a Minnesota statute, will be taken up for oral argument by the Supreme Court, which will then decide whether a review shall be denied.

The Minnesota courts ordered the suppression of the periodical on the ground it was a malicious, scandalous and defamatory publication, threatening a public menace.

Near challenged the constitutionality of the State law in question, contending it deprived him of property without compensation and violated the liberty which the Federal and Minnesota constitutions guaranteed to the press.

FAIR SKY LIKELY FOR ECLIPSE TOMORROW

Scientists on Nulieuf Island Ready for 93 Seconds of Intensive Work.

NULIEUF ISLAND, in the South Pacific, Oct. 20.—Weeks of preparation for observance of the total eclipse of the sun here tomorrow brought announcements from members of scientific expeditions that all equipment was ready for the event and weather conditions appeared favorable.

The expedition from New Zealand and the United States Naval Observatory have cameras and spectrographs ready for the 93 seconds during which the sun will be in total eclipse. The sun was observed today in 45 and 42 foot cameras, insuring exact alignment for the work the scientists have traveled thousands of miles to accomplish.

The U. S. S. Tanager arrived here at daylight with the last use of observers. The ship also had seven women aboard, more than twice the number of white women ever before on the island at one time.

Weather Favorable. The weather for the last four days has been good, and indicates the scientists will have a clear sky to view the eclipse.

There have been no earthquake tremors here for two months, and, consequently, the scientists have not been disturbed by activity that would dislodge their delicate instruments.

The natives are excited over the equipment which has been transported to their island. They are friendly, and have offered prayers on behalf of the expeditions. They have also shown absolute honesty in regard to their equipment and stores, which have the maximum security at all times without guards.

Commander C. H. J. Keppeler of the naval expedition supervised construction of the 45-foot camera tower on which a 2500-pound camera has been mounted. This piece of equipment and a dozen other pieces of apparatus form the navy's contribution toward obtaining permanent records of the eclipse.

Among scientists who will observe the event are Prof. S. A. Mitchell of Virginia University, his assistant, N. P. Fales, and Dr. T. J. Jagger, noted volcanologist of Hawaii.

Dr. Mitchell plans to study atoms in the sun's atmosphere. These solar atoms are no larger than earthly ones, which means they are so tiny the biggest is several hundred diameters too small to be visible under the most powerful microscope.

RETAIL FOOD PRICES INCREASE UP 11-13 PER CENT AFTER FALLING STEADILY NEARLY A YEAR

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—Retail food prices in the United States increased 11-13 per cent in the month ending Sept. 15, after falling steadily for almost a year, but still were 3 1/2 per cent below the September, 1929, average.

The Labor Department, in announcing the increase, said it applied principally to eggs, certain meats, potatoes, beans and cheese. Decreases were reported for onions, cabbage, sugar, flour, tea and some fruits.

$12,000,000 LOSS NOW INDICATED IN BOB'S COMPANIES

Wealthy Acquaintances of Missing Head of Investment Concerns Thought to Be Chiefly Affected.

INJUNCTIONS TO STOP STOCK SALES SOUGHT

Evidence on Use of Mails by Metal and Mining and Rainbow Shares to Go to Federal Grand Jury.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—An injunction to restrain two companies of Charles V. Bob from further stock sales was sought by the State today, after Watson Washburn, Assistant Attorney-General, said investors face a possible loss of $12,000,000.

Bob disappeared 10 days ago, after leaving his private airplane at the municipal airport in Chicago. He has been sought by officials of the State Bureau of Securities for questioning in an investigation of Metal and Mining Shares, Inc., and Rainbow Luminous Products, Inc.

Washburn said about $6,000,000 of the loss probably would be accounted for by the collapse of Metal and Mining Shares, an investment trust, of which Bob is president.

He said, although Rainbow Luminous Products, Inc., in which Bob is a director, is believed to be solvent, the loss to the public would "probably be greater than that caused by Metal and Mining Shares, Inc."

For Federal Grand Jury. Henry H. Staples, Deputy Assistant Attorney-General, who prepared the injunction petition for presentation in Brooklyn Supreme Court, also planned to turn over to Acting United States Attorney Robert E. Maury such evidence as he has collected in reference to use of the mails by Bob and his concerns for possible action by a Federal grand jury.

George Thompson, who has been retained as counsel for the Rainbow concern, and R. R. MacLett, its president, both have announced that an audit of the company's affairs will almost certainly show the corporation to be solvent. Washburn also has said its present board of directors probably will be able to save the company, so that his announcement of a possible loss to the public was something of a surprise.

Certain losses incurred by investors in others of the 31 or 32 concerns in which Bob was interested must be added to the principal losses suffered by stockholders of Metal and Mining Shares and Rainbow Luminous, he said, but he added the losses probably would be negligible, since most of these companies are believed to be small. He explained that the loss due to the suspension of Piperno & Co., brokers, from the Curb Exchange, also probably would be "very small."

As far as Washburn has learned, very few of the shares of Bob's companies were offered generally to the public. Metal and Mining was supposed to have collected $5,000,000 of outside cash, but this is said to have come mostly from a group of Bob's wealthy acquaintances.

The names of these are not yet available. Bob forfeited $500,000 Option in Bid for Insull Subsidiary. CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—John F. Gilchrist, president of the Federal Electric Co. of Chicago, an Insull subsidiary, said that Charles V. Bob, missing New York banker, in 1929 negotiated for purchase of the company for $7,000,000 and put up $500,000 to bind the option.

Gilchrist added yesterday that Bob's unexplained efforts to obtain control of the Claude Neon Light Corporation interfered with his plans for acquiring the Federal Co., and that Bob and his associates forfeited the $500,000 option. Bob was unable, Gilchrist said, to interest Chicago banks in the venture.

Gilchrist stated that he knew nothing of reports that $5,000,000 had been placed in escrow by the Bob group in an effort to consummate the Federal deal.

MOSCOW, Oct. 20.—One person was sentenced to death today and 14 others given various terms of prison after their conviction of graft in food and clothing sales here. Most of the defendants were private traders, speculators and employees of the government retail shops.

FUTURISTIC OPERA IN GERMAN THEATER BRINGS ON A RIOT

Japanese Prince Among Those Routed When Fascists Release Stench Bombs.

By the Associated Press. FRANKFURT-ON-MAIN, Germany, Oct. 20.—Prince Takamatsu, brother of the Japanese Emperor, and his consort were driven from the opera house here last night by stench bombs thrown by fascists.

The bombs, which were accompanied by cries of "Hail Hitler" and "Germany awake," were not directed at the royal visitors, but in protest at the opera, "Rise and Fall of the City Mahogany," Nevertheless the Prince and Princess, rather puzzled, hastily left the auditorium amid considerable hubbub.

Police dragged out several disturbers during the performance and cleared the auditorium after the final curtain. Outside they dispersed a crowd. The real tumult began inside when demonstrators, evidently planted in various parts of the house, began yelling, whistling, chanting and releasing their bombs.

The opera is by Kurt Weill and Bert Brecht. It describes in modernistic words and music several starting scenes of a Utopia of freedom founded by three fugitives from justice, a city where no one is prevented from doing anything.

The hero finally commits the crime "no state can ignore"—he fails to pay his bills and is electrocuted for bankruptcy. The fascists apparently objected to its political flavor and some of its orgiastic scenes. There was a considerable fascist protest when the play had its premier in Leipzig several months ago.

One Communist was fatally injured in a clash between fascists and Communists incident to the disturbances at the opera. His skull was fractured by a beer stein and he died shortly afterward at a hospital.

67 MOTORISTS MAROONED IN NEW YORK FARM HOUSE

Hundreds of Cars in Snowdrifts Near Buffalo; Village Cares for 1500 Persons.

By the Associated Press. BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 20.—Hundreds of automobiles were in snowdrifts in Western New York today, abandoned by tourists who left home in Indian summer.

Snow from nine inches to four feet deep covered the ground all the way from Buffalo to Erie, Pa. The storm over Lake Erie was accompanied by a gale which drove freighters to shelter.

Those who abandoned automobiles plodded their way to farmhouses in search of food and shelter. The houses soon were overcrowded. Snow plows endeavored to push the way through to them with supplies. In one ordinary sized farmhouse two miles north of Farnham, Erie County, 67 persons were accommodated last night. Women and children slept on floors from cellar to garret.

The Chamber of Commerce of Silver Creek today took steps to find accommodations for 1500 persons marooned in that hamlet. About 400 cars were stalled in and near Silver Creek.

SNOW COVERS CANADIAN WHEAT 100,000,000 Bushels Lie Unthreshed in Fields.

By the Associated Press. WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Oct. 20.—Unthreshed and covered with snow, some 100,000,000 bushels of wheat lie in the fields of Alberta and Saskatchewan, George H. Williams of the Saskatchewan section of the United Farmers of Canada said today. He said it was about one-third of the wheat crop of the province and would call a conference of farmers.

KILLED IN FIRE
AT WUCHOW, CHINA

Sweeps Business Offices
Boats Along the West River.

Associated Press.
WUCHOW, China, Oct. 20.—Six hundred and fifty persons were killed in a fire in the tea house at Wuchow, on the Kiangtung border, today.

A fire was reported to have broken out in a floating restaurant in the West River, or Si Kiang. It spread rapidly to other craft, hundreds of persons leaped into the river, and scores were reported to have drowned.

Because of a peculiarity of the river, a considerable part of the business is done aboard land on pontoons. A difference of about 60 feet in the water between high water in summer and low water in winter makes it difficult for many merchants to have stores and offices afloat. The prosperous part of the city is along the river.

Wuchow is naturally situated to serve as a center of distribution for the provinces of the south,
in Kwangsi and Kwelchow.
The West River, which carries the shipping, sometimes is infested with pirates. The Standard Oil Co. of New York has a station there.

GRANITE CITY MAN KILLED IN HOLDUP OF CONFECTIONERY

John G. Bohlever Shot by Robber When He Attempts to Leave Store to Get Pistol.

SLAYER ESCAPES WITH COMPANION

Former Bootlegger Carried Large Amounts of Money and Had Said He Never Would Be Held Up.

John G. Bohlever, who often said he would resist anyone who tried to rob him, was killed in his confectionery, 2715 Benton street, Granite City, last night, by one of two holdup men when he tried to slip out of the store by a rear door to get a revolver and protect his property.

The robbers, thought by Granite City police to have been transients, did without loot after the shooting. A search still was being conducted for them today in railroad yards not far from Bohlever's store.
Bohlever, a former bootlegger who bought the store and ceased liquor operations last year after he had been arrested three times, was known to carry large amounts of money on his person. Acquaintances in Granite City frequently had seen him with from $500 to $1,000 in bills in his wallet.

He was in the store with his clerk, William Krausch, at 6:30, when the robbers entered. One was a shepkin-lined coat and the other was in his shirt sleeves.
Krausch told police. The coatless man pointed a revolver and said:
"Put up your hands, put up your hands, put up your hands." "don't shoot, I'll get the money for you."
He turned to go out a side door toward his home, next door to the confectionery, and the coatless man fired a single shot which struck Bohlever in the mouth.

Bohlever fell in the doorway,
fatally wounded, and the robbers dashed out of the front door. One turned north, the other south.
The man ran west, behind the store and disappeared in the direction of the railroad tracks, 300 yards away. Police who arrived a few minutes after the shooting found a shepkin coat and a suit
out in the yard behind the store, which they think were discarded
by the robbers.

"I knew he was going for his revolver," Krausch said, "because the money was in the store, and he always said that he'd fight anybody who tried to hold him up. His revolver was in the house."

Krausch said he could identify the robbers. Bohlever's wife, who was in the house, did not see either of the men. Bohlever died in St.
Elizabeth's Hospital 20 minutes
after the shooting.

PHYSICIAN REPORTS ARSENIC CAUSED WAR VETERAN'S DEATH

Charles H. Long Succumbed After Getting Medicine at Bureau Drug Counter.

Arsenic in sufficient quantity to cause death was found in the stomach of Charles H. Long, 35-year-old war veteran, who died last Thursday in an ambulance on the way to Veterans' Hospital, below Jefferson Barracks, according to a report to the St. Louis County Coroner by Dr. R. B. H. Gradwohl, who analyzed the stomach contents.
Long applied at the Veterans' Bureau, 4020 Chouteau avenue, at 2:25 p. m. Thursday for treatment for a cough. He received a prescription for cough medicine and inhalant and had both filled at the bureau drug counter.

Neither the cough medicine nor inhalant prescribed for Long Thursday contained arsenic, Veterans Bureau officials said. An inquest will be held at Overland tomorrow.

Long, who was employed as an electrician at Koch Hospital, resided at 1211 Geyer avenue with his wife and several children.

ROLLA C. LAWRY SUED FOR DIVORCE

President of Neet, Inc., Court-ous but Indifferent Wife Declares.

Mrs. Estelle Irene Lawry of 336 Orchard avenue, Webster Groves, filed suit at Clayton today to divorce Rolla C. Lawry, president of Neet, Inc., 4333 Duncannon avenue, on the ground of indignity.

The petition stated he was always gentlemanly and courteous, but indifferent, and told her he no longer cared for her. They were married at Pacific in 1912
and separated last January. Mrs.
Lawry asks for the custody of their three children.

Lawry, once a farmer, acquired control of a concern formed on a $40,000 shoeing to manufacture
net, a deplatory, and was retained
as president at $25,000 a year, when the company was purchased by an Eastern concern for $1,524,- 000.

He had purchased stock from Mrs. Natalie E. Frier, widow of E. D. Frier, founder of the Hannibal Pharmaceutical Co., which began manufacture of the hair remover, and from her father, W. H.
Ely, a farmer residing near Hannibal, Mo., after Frier's death in 1925. They sued later to recover the stock, and following a Circuit Court decree in favor of Mrs.
Frier, Lawry agreed to pay Mrs.
Frier $175,000 additional for stock
for which he had paid her $103,000, and to pay Ely $88,500 instead of $44,000 for his stock.

MAYOR SAYS HE WILL HELP STREET CAR MEN KEEP JOBS

Delegation Tells Miller That Additional One-Man Cars Increase Unemployment.

Mayor Miller today promised a committee of street car men that he would request officers of the Public Service Co. not to put on any additional one-man cars during the winter, after he was informed that one-man operation of cars was increasing unemployment.

The committee, headed by Harry Nelson, president of the union, and William R. Schneider, an attorney, called at city hall. Nelson told Mayor Miller that 30 conductors formerly employed on the Southampton line had been dismissed because of the one-man cars. The Mayor said he would communicate with Stanley Clarke, president of the company, immediately.

WANTS EACH FAMILY IN U. S. TO BUY $100 GOODS ON CREDIT

By the Associated Press.

under which each family in the nation would buy $100 worth of goods on an extended payment plan was proposed to President Hoover today by Julian Goldman of New York, head of a chain of stores.

Goldman told the President that if every family would use its credit to the extent of $100 it would

GUILTY OF MAIL FRAUD IN SCHEME TO SWINDLE BANK

William S. McClintock,
Kansas City Attorney, Convicted—Three Already Sentenced.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Oct. 20.—
The conviction of William S.
McClintock, Kansas City attorney, in Federal Court here, Saturday on 11 of 15 counts of an indictment charging him with using the mails to defraud, ended another chapter in one of the greatest bank swindles in the West. The conviction carries a maximum sentence of five years in prison on each count, but the sentences may run concurrently.

McClintock was charged with having plotted with A. J. Baxter, president of the Vernon (Kan.)
State Bank, and James E. Brady of Kansas City, Kan., reputed head of the swindle ring, to defraud the defunct Union National Bank of Beloit, Kan.

Following his conviction, the attorney asserted: "I never meant to defraud anyone in my life." His counsel said an appeal will be filed this week.

The swindle ring involved banks
in Missouri, Kansas, Michigan, Arkansas and Georgia, and had
New York connections. The scheme as outlined at the trial was to place in banks worthless notes signed by persons who could not pay, or with fictitious names, and to cash checks purported to be signed by persons in whose names
the accounts were carried.

MUSICIANS REJECT OFFER OF MOVIE THEATER OWNERS

Base Action on Omission of Orchestra From the Missouri; Further Efforts at Settlement.

The proposal of theater owners to settle difficulties which caused the withdrawal of orchestras from local motion picture theaters Sept.
1 was rejected by union musicians today because it did not call for an orchestra at the Missouri Theater.

The proposed settlement, offered in New York last week by interests controlling the local houses to a committee representing the union,
provided for musicians in the St.
Louis, Fox, Ambassador and Gramacy theaters, but not the Missouri.
The committee rejected the offer but agreed to present it to the membership of the union.

Union stage hands and motion picture operators have threatened a sympathetic strike unless the differences are not settled by Thursday

STEPMOTHER HELD IN DEATH OF CHILD

Ground Glass Is Found in Vi-cera of Denver Detective's Daughter.

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 20.—Mrs.
Pearl O'Loughlin, wife of a city detective, is held for questioning
today by police who have established that her 10-year-old stepdaughter, Leona O'Loughlin, was murdered. She was arrested yesterday when an autopsy over the child's body, discovered in City Park Lake Friday, disclosed, physicians said, that Leona had been found ground glass, beaten unconscious and hurled into the lake to drown.

The stepmother declared, in the face of hours of questioning, that she knew nothing about the killing or the presence of glass in Leona's stomach.

The slain girl's father, Leo O'Loughlin, is in a hospital apparently recovering from eating ground glass. When questioned by police, Mr. O'Loughlin said she had been ill as had her son by a previous marriage, Douglas Mil-can, 8. She said she believed the illness was induced by eating glass.
Physicians conducted an examination, but said they could find no symptoms other than that the woman was weak from a 48-hour fast.

Officers said they had found a blood-stained tire iron, wisps of the child's hair and a towel in the O'Loughlin automobile, which Mrs.
O'Loughlin used twice the night
her stepdaughter disappeared. Mrs.
O'Loughlin explained the towel had been used to stop a nose bleed suffered by her son.

Physicians said the slain girl's body had enough glass in the vi-cera to have caused death within five or six hours, but clung to the belief that she died from drowning
after having been knocked unconscious with two blows on the skull.

Frank O'Loughlin, who lives at the home of his brother Leo, voluntarily went to the police station for questioning and subsequently was released.

AUTO OF MISSING DRY AGENT IS FOUND

U. S. and State Authorities
Think He Was Murdered
While Seeking Bootleggers.

By the Associated Press.

RATON, N.M., Oct. 20.—Clues to the apparent murder of a Federal prohibition agent, found almost two months after his disappearance, today spurred Government and state authorities to search for his body and for evidence that might throw light on the identity of his assailant.

Ray Sutton, on the trail of bootleggers in this section of New Mexico, dropped from sight Aug. 25.
No trace could be found of him or his car. Last night the reason for their failure became apparent. His car had been hidden in a canyon between two trees and covered with brush. The rear seat bore bloodstains.

The body of Sutton has not been found, but authorities plan to continue the dragg-ing of a lake near Taylor, N. M., thinking that it might have been thrown there.

Perry Caldwell, former Federal prohibition agent, is under bond on a charge of cashing an expense voucher of Sutton by forging his indorsement, using Sutton's ini-tialled ring and a Masonic emblem for identification. Caldwell refused to discuss the case. He was dismissed in 1925 when the Government was reducing its force of field men.

Sutton's car, identified by Charles Stearns, dry director for New Mexico, was found 17 miles southwest of here on the Taos Highway by Rafael Samora, a ranch hand assisting C. U. Finley, a Federal agent in charge of the case.

A. J. Clements, finger print expert of the state penitentiary, and John L. Pounds of Clayton, Deputy Sheriff, obtained finger prints from the machine and spent last night classifying them.

Sutton left his hotel on the afternoon of Aug. 25 and was last seen by Deputy Sheriff Boots Fletcher seven miles south of Raton, parked by the roadside, apparently waiting for some one.

that will silhouette

instantly

THE fashionable figure of today is a slender figure. Those who may be inclined to excess weight have found it necessary to diet rigidly and exercise strenuously. Then along came Beauty Mould—and reducing down to a stylish figure was simplified. BeautyMould has been the answer to the problem of many stout women. BeautyMould changed the line of flesh to the line of fashion. Inches disappeared instantly and a new, fashionable, supple, slender figure resulted. Stout women found that they could wear today's styles in perfect form—and keep on losing flesh daily.

Vanna Varden, famous model, says: "I never diet, but when I put on excess fat I immediately wear Beauty Mould and reduce down to 36. Then I discontinue—otherwise I reduce too much."

TWO KILLED WHEN PLANES COLLIDE DURING AIR RACE

Machine of Pennsylvania Sportsman Hits That of Professional Pilot, Cutting Part of Tail.

By the Associated Press.

TRIDENT, N. J., Oct. 20.—George Zinn, 23 years old, wealthy sportsman of Rydal, Pa., and R. W. Mackie, 26, a professional pilot, were killed at the Mercer airport yesterday, when their planes collided during a free-for-all race in the Eastern States air meet.

A crowd of 25,000 was watching the planes round the home pylon at a rate of more than 120 miles an hour, when Zinn tore into the tail of Mackie's machine in a spurt to avoid hitting another machine. Zinn's propeller cut away the tail surfaces of Mackie's plane.

Mackie attempted to land, but his plane dived nose foremost, falling less than 100 feet and buried the pilot under the wreckage. Zinn's plane crashed a moment later, bursting into flames as it struck.

Zinn was the son of the late Capt. George Zinn, who demonstrated the construction and operation of Browning machine guns to the American forces during the World War. His grandfather was Brigadier-General George Zinn, an officer in the Union army during the Civil War. He had been flying about two years. His mother lives at Gordonville, Va.

Mackie began flying in 1916. During the World War he was an instructor at army flying schools. After the war he engaged in commercial flying. He was married and has two small daughters. He was employed as pilot and instructor at the Curtiss-Wright Airport, Valley Stream, N. Y.

In 1923, while stationed at Louisville, Ky., he was commissioned a Colonel on the staff of the Governor of Kentucky.

Killed When Plane Hits Ship He Had Just Landed.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 20.—C. W. Cushman, 43 years old, American mining engineer of Durango, Mexico, was killed last night when an airplane landed on the one he had just flown to a Burbank airport. He was struck by the propeller of the second ship. Cushman's four passengers were uninjured.

WOMAN DRIVER SAYS SHE DID NOT STRIKE CHILD

Mrs. Maude Marshall, under indictment for manslaughter, Thinks Mother Threw Baby. Mrs. Maude Marshall, 5297 Washington boulevard, who is under indictment on a charge of manslaughter for the death of a baby-in-arms whose mother, Mrs. Gertrude Kofeld, 8415 Pennsylvania avenue, was injured by her car, said today that the child could not have been run over, as the autopsy showed death was due to a fractured skull and not a crushing of any part of the body. Mrs. Marshall expressed the belief that the child was injured when the mother threw it from her.

She also asserted that the mother was not seriously injured. A physician said Mrs. Kofeld had suffered a simple fracture of the pelvis and contusions of the left side of the body. He expressed the opinion that her recovery would be complete.

Mrs. Marshall said the automatic signal at Newstead avenue and Washington boulevard showed green as she passed through it going east and that Mrs. Kofeld, carrying her 13-month-old son, Martin Jr., and accompanied by three other children, stepped from the southeast curb after the front of the automobile had passed.

CAUGHT AFTER SHOOTING MAN ON SHIP AND LEAPING INTO SEA

Assailant Returned to Tanker by Sailors in Boat and Put in Irons.

By the Associated Press. WILLOW, N. J., Oct. 20.—The shooting of a sailor at sea and the attempted escape of his assailant by jumping overboard eight miles from land was related by Capt. Zera of the tanker Sunoco as the ship lay at anchor off here yesterday with distress signals flying.

The signals apparently were unnoticed by coast guards, but they were seen by Mayor Robert G. Pierpont, who was fishing at the entrance to Cold Spring Harbor. The Mayor put out in his motor yacht and went alongside the tanker in a heavy sea. Capt. Zera told the story through a megaphone as sailers transferred the wounded man from the ship to the yacht.

The assailant, whose name was not disclosed, was in iron. He leaped overboard, members of the crew said, after firing three bullets into Jose Hernandez, Argentine sailor. Members of the crew put out in a small boat and returned the assailant to the ship. The cause of the shooting was not known, the captain said.

Quick Relief for Common Coughs, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up severe coughs due to colds. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief in a hurry.

From any drugist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, loosening the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germs laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. No other known medicine is more helpful in cases of incipient bronchial coughs and other severe coughs due to colds.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

BOY LOOKING AT BANK BOOK IS HELD AS THIEF

Negro, 15, Admits Snatching Purse and Committing Four Burglaries.

A Negro boy stopped beside a street lamp at Newstead and Fairfax avenues late Saturday night, drew a savings bank book from his pocket and scrutinized the pages with a puzzled expression. Police Lieutenant Helmolt stopped behind him, looked over his shoulder and observed the book bore the name of Miss Mary E. Finley, 1241 Hamilton avenue. Questioned, the boy identified himself as John Rucker, 15 years old, 4414 Enright avenue, and confessed he had snatched Miss Finley's purse at Taylor and Finney avenue Thursday night. He described four recent burglaries in which he obtained shoes, shirts, trousers and a watch, including the garments he wore. The watch was found in his home.

Guided by Rucker, police arrested Calvin Dillard, 19, Negro, who said he helped the boy in two burglaries.

Flinds Stolen Checks in Pocket After Shopping Trip.

When Miss Vivienne Lang, 6148 Pershing avenue, reached home Saturday evening from a shopping trip, she found in her coat pocket a notebook containing two checks which she had never seen before. The checks belonged to Miss Marietta L. Hodgson, 5221 Page boulevard, whose purse had been stolen by a pickpocket in a downtown store. The owner of the notebook has not been found.

Returning home yesterday afternoon, James McKemie, 5590 Pershing avenue, passed a man and a woman, each carrying a handbag, on the stairs. Entering his apartment, he discovered burgars had stolen clothing and jewelry valued at $125.

The Missouri Stables, 200 Berthold avenue, reported that sneak thieves had stolen 49 horse blankets valued at $200.

Charles Kern, 2128 College avenue, and a woman companion, in an automobile, were held up early Sunday at Adelalle and Algernon avenues by two men who took $4.50 from Kern. Arlie Gatlin, filling station attendant at 5400 Gravois avenue, was robbed of $65 and his automobile as he was closing up early Sunday. Philip McHugh, a shoemaker, 1519 Agnes avenue, was strong-armed in front of 1408 North Ninth street by three Negroes, who took his overcoat and $5.

Three women and a man are held on the complaint of Thomas R. MacCambridge of the Lennox Hotel, who said they stole his purse containing $49 last night. MacCambridge said one of the women lured him into a house in the 1200 block of Franklin avenue where his purse disappeared while he tried to stop a quarrel among the women. When he complained, he said, the man put him out with a revolver.

James Thomas, restaurant proprietor at 3330 Franklin avenue, told police he was robbed of $8 early yesterday by a Negro robber who had taken $30 from him Oct. 6 in a previous holdup.

EX-SENATOR REED ASSAILS HIGH TARIFF

Wants Democrats to Repudiate Plank of 1928 — Here for Campaign.

Former Senator James A. Reed was in St. Louis today and will begin a series of Democratic campaign speeches in Missouri with his appearance at Chillicothe Friday. He will speak at Clinton Saturday, at Kansas City next Monday, at Joplin Oct. 28, in St. Louis Oct. 30 and Benton Oct. 31 and at Sedalia Nov. 2.

Reed said he would urge the Democrats of Missouri to repudiate the action of the 1928 national convention in favoring a high tariff. He spoke of "certain influences" as responsible for the action taken in 1928, but did not mention by name Chairman Raskob or former Gov. Smith, who were predominant forces in that campaign.

"I am interested," he said, "in repudiating the attempts of certain influences to have the Democratic party retreat from its position in favor of a low tariff. The attempt so to control the party never represented the sentiment of the Democrats of the nation.

"The pity is that the retreat was ordered just at a time when economic conditions and administrative blunders were making it clear that high tariffs neither produce nor maintain prosperous conditions. I venture the opinion that in the next campaign the voice of the masses will be heard, regardless of attempts to control or direct."

Reed said he would also urge the party to "get back to fundamental issues, and away from issues and experiments which have almost changed the nature of our Government and which almost without exception have been disappointing failure."

GUARANTEED FOR LIFE

—not durability alone, but also Pressureless Point

Puccini, composer of Tosca, La Bohème, and Madama Butterfly, wrote his greatest operas with a Parker Pen. Music—sublime and yet so fleeting that it might easily have escaped beyond recall—thus became immortal.

Your own ideas and inspirations—they are far more precious than the few dollars standing between you and the Parker Duofold. Capture them—make them glow with life by carrying this fountain pen classic that is itself an inspiration to write with.

Go to the nearest pen counter—get a taste of this new-way Pressureless Writing. And note the matchless style and balance of Parker's new streamlined barrel. It lets the Pen set low and unexposed in the pocket, without bulge. Yet for all its slender grace, it holds 17.4% more ink than average.

Here you will discover what luxury is—and why we pay our point-smiths a bonus in cash for every Duofold point that we accept, after first putting it through 11 merciless tests.

You don't need a guide to find Parker Duofold—all good dealers know it's the Pen the majority want—and they are ready. But to make sure, doubly sure—look on the barrel for this famous imprint, "Geo. S. Parker—DUOFOLD". That guarantees it for life.

METHODISTS URGE MAKING OF UPLIFT MOTION PICTURES

Southern Conference Calls on Screen Industry to Take Place of Leadership Among Moral Agencies.

A resolution, calling on motion picture producers to make pictures of moral value, was adopted by the St. Louis Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at its closing session yesterday afternoon in University Church, University City.

The resolution condemns use in the movies of underworld themes, pictures bringing into prominence the use of liquor and tobacco and subjects that might have a bad influence upon youths.

"This industry," the resolution states, "can be one of the most helpful sources of entertainment to the people, and it can also be the source of great harm. We call on the moral industry to come out into the light and take its place of leadership with the great moral agencies of the age."

The conference voted to uphold the eighteenth amendment, both on general grounds of law observance and because the church approves the principle of prohibition and opposes any form of the traffic in liquor. Another resolution, on Sabbath observance, called for a declaration of Sunday "a day against humanity," and urged all Christians to promote observance of the day, and non-Christians to respect it.

Recognition of deacon's orders was given to Charles F. Schult, formerly a Lutheran minister. The Bishop, in his conference sermon, said:

"Never has the Christian church seen the day when there was a greater need for a ringing, authoritative message."

"The message that is final, that is real, is the message of a life, the sum total influence of a life."

THE NEW FORD

BEAUTY      COMFORT      SAFETY
SPEED      POWER      ECONOMY
LONG LIFE      *RELIABILITY

**Of all the features of the new Ford there is none more important than reliability. It is a reflection of the substantial worth of the car.*

Evidence of the high quality built into the Ford is the extensive use of ball and roller bearings. There are more than twenty in all — an unusually large number. From the engine to the road, the entire drive of the new Ford on all forward speeds is wholly on ball and roller bearings.

In addition to smoother operation, this saves gasoline, gives the car more speed and power, decreases noise and increases the durability and efficiency of every moving part.

Another important factor in good performance is the care with which the car is made. The aluminum pistons are an interesting example of precision manufacture.

Though weighing more than a pound each, they are made so accurately that they do not vary more than two grams in weight. In size they are held true to within one one-thousandth of an inch. The wrist-pin holes in the pistons are diamond bored to within a limit of three ten-thousandths of an inch. In each motor, complete piston and connecting-rod assemblies are not permitted to vary from each other by more than  $3\frac{1}{2}$  grams.

Throughout the car you find many other instances of this same accuracy in the manufacture and assembly of vital mechanical parts. Combined with simplicity of design and high quality of materials, it is the reason for the economy and long life of the car and the satisfactory service it is giving millions of owners the world over.

See the nearest dealer and have him give you a demonstration ride in the new Ford. You will know then that it brings you everything you want or need in an automobile at an unusually low price.

DAIRY SHOW CLOSES;

ATTENDANCE 213,652

Indiana Girl Wins $200 Milking Prize—Turner Society Drifts at Arena.

The National Dairy Show, the largest exhibition of purebred dairy cattle in the world, closed at The Arena last night after recording an attendance of 213,652 persons for the nine days of the exposition.
Yesterday's crowd was 17,000 persons.

Although falling short of last year's 279,000 attendance, officers of the National Dairy Association pointed out that many persons visited the show then to see The Arena, which had just been completed. Observation of the crowds about the judging ring and larger delegations from rural communities led them to announce that more practical dairymen visited this year's exhibition than ever before.

Virtually all of the 1400 head of cattle exhibited at the show left for their home farms in various sections of the country today, although a few herds will exhibit at Southern and far Western fairs.
The national show, however, marks
the culmination of the breeders' year.

Finals in the milkmaids' marathon and churning contest were held in The Arena last night during an intermission between fancy drills and gymnastic feats presented by the Turner societies of St.
Louis. Miss Dorothy Wilhelm of Cornersville, Ind., who represented the Wabash Railroad, won the 1200 milking prize, obtaining 202.83 pounds of milk in 51 min-

persons visited the exposition, which contained several thousand birds, including some rare fowls besides rabbits and other pets. The

PILGRIMAGE TO GRAVES END
ARROW ROCK CENTENNIAL
Burial Places of Two Former Governors and Country Doctor

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
ARROW ROCK, Mo., Oct. 20.—A pilgrimage to graves of two former Governors of Missouri, a country doctor and the builder of an old tavern in two almost forgotten Saline County cemeteries yesterday concluded the two-day centennial celebration of the old Arrow Rock tavern sponsored by the Missouri Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution were conducted over the graves of former Governors Claiborne F. Jackson and Merch M. Marauder; Joseph Huston, builder of the old tavern, and Dr. John Sappington, originator of the famous Dr. Sappington's guanine pills.

The pilgrimage began at the o. l.
tavern and proceeded over the rough hill roads to the city cemetry where Huston is buried. A tribute was paid to him by Chif-ford Barnhill of Marshall. Two of Huston's great grandchildren, Mrs. Leon Corder and Mrs. Frank Goddell of Marshall, placed a wreath on his grave.

Six miles farther on the pilgrimage of 100 automobiles stopped at the isolated Sappington Cemetery.
Col. J. B. Barnes of Booneville delivered an address on Dr. Sapping-ton. Relatives of Dr. Sappington placed a wreath on his tomb. Judge Roy D. Williams of Booneville was chairman of the ceremonies. Relatives then placed wreaths and spoke prayers over the graves of Jackson and Marauder. Maj. W.
S. MacCarron of Booneville later spoke at the old tavern on their careers.

CHICAGO 'GANGSTER' ARRESTED
Told Girl Here He Lost Arm in Fight.

A one-armed man who described himself to a girl who took his fancy, as a "big tough gangster from Chicago," was arrested by detectives last night in a downtown hotel. After questioning by Chief of Detectives Kalsner, he was held pending communication with Chicago authorities.

He said he was John Mango, 32 years old, a clerk, and said that instead of losing his arm in a gang fight as he had told the girl, it was amputated when he was a boy
as the result of injuries sustained from an electric wire. Mango, who said he was a former convict, told Kalsner he knew all of Chicago's gangsters.

HAWES SPEAKS HERE TONIGHT

DIRECTIONS FOR DRAWING A FOWL

Very Few Home Cooks Know the Technique of Cleaning a Chicken.

Make a small incision below the breast bone. Insert the hand and carefully loosen the internal organs, the entrails, the gizzard, the heart and the liver. Reserve the last three; these are known as the giblets.

Care should be taken not to break the gall bladder, which is attached to the liver. The liquid content of the gall bladder is very bitter, and makes the flesh unpleasant to eat.

Remove the lungs and the kidneys. Insert two fingers under the skin close to the neck and remove the windpipe and the crop.

Pull back the skin of the neck and cut off the neck close to the body, leaving enough of the neck skin to fold down under the back if the bird is to be roasted.

Remove the oil bag from the tail. Clean the inside of the bird by running water through it and wipe the outside with a damp cloth.

To Clean Giblets. Cut the fat and membrane from the gizzard. Make a gash in the thickest part, cutting to, but not through the inner lining. Remove the inner sac and throw it away.

Carefully separate the gall bladder from the liver and cut off any part of the liver that has a greenish color.

Remove arteries and veins from the top of the heart and squeeze out the clot of blood. Wash the giblets, put with them the wing tips and neck, cover with cold water and cook until tender.

HOME MADE PIES PLEASE THE FAMILY

Making Them Offers Few Difficulties if Directions Are Followed.

The thing that makes a pie different from any other food is the fact that it has a crust—or two of them, as the case may be. And the character of that crust determines, largely, whether the pie is a good or a bad one, "largely" because the flavor of the filling must be counted in, too. However, it is on this question of crust that so many cooks come to grief.

All young housekeepers yearn to make a good pie. There are a number of brands of advice that might be given to enable them to achieve this, but the simplest and the most important is "follow directions, and be sure of the temperature of the oven." When baking pie make a two crust one, say about one-third of the time, time bake a pie shell, using another little pan and putting the crust on the outside of it. This is filled with a chocolate or coconut cream or with fresh sliced fruit and whipped cream for another meal. The recipe for pie crust that follows will make these two small pies or one medium sized double crust.

Pie Crust. Sift together two cups flour, one-half teaspoon salt and one-half teaspoon baking powder. Rub in two-thirds cup shortening. Use a fork or pastry chopper or the very tips of your fingers to work the fat into the flour. When the mixture is thoroughly blended so that no lumps of fat are present, add just enough ice water to make a stiff dough. This will probably take about one-half cupful, but add it a little at a time, mixing it in with a fork, so that you are sure of not getting it too soft. A soft dough almost always means a tough crust, rather than the tender, crisp one so much desired.

Turn the ball of dough out on a lightly floured board, divide in two parts, and roll quickly and lightly to a thin sheet. If the weather is very warm it is a good plan to chill the dough before rolling it. Don't work too hard over the rolling; use firm, light motions with the rolling pin and roll the dough in the general shape of the pie pan. Line the pie pan with the dough, patting into shape with the fingers. Be careful not to stretch the dough or it will tear. Have the sheet large enough to fit over the pan loosely. Trim off the edges with a sharp knife. Roll the other piece of dough for the cover or top crust. The trimmings from both crusts will make a pie shell, when they are gathered together and rolled again.

Fruit Pie. Fill the pie pan with fruit, sliced apples perhaps, mixed with a little sugar and cinnamon, one-quarter cup sugar, one-quarter teaspoon cinnamon to two large apples. Have the top crust rolled to fit the pan, place it over the fruit and press the edges firmly together. Trim off the excess crust, and cut two slits in the top to let the steam escape.

How to Bake Pies. All pies must be baked in a hot oven—400 degrees. Fruit pies should be baked rather quickly, while custard pies or those containing eggs in the filling, need slower heat. Put all pies in a hot oven and reduce the heat after the crust has set. Bake fruit pies 20 to 30 minutes at 400 degrees, then reduce the heat to 350 degrees or a moderate temperature. Custard pies bake 15 minutes at 400 degrees and finish baking at 325 to 350 degrees. Small pies will bake in about 25 minutes for apple or peach or berries. A pie shell will only require eight to 10 minutes.

A WHOLESOME DISH Seafoods Make Attractive and Appetizing Molded Foods. Slices of cold salmon mold are very suitable for the lunch basket. Pack with them buttered bran muffins or corn cakes, slices of hard boiled egg, and small tomatoes.

To make salmon mold: Soak one tablespoon gelatin in water. Beat two egg yolks and mix with one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon mustard and a few grains cayenne. Add two tablespoons melted butter, two tablespoons vinegar and three-fourths cup of milk. Cook in double boiler, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Remove from fire and add gelatin and one large can of salmon, shredded. Turn into a mold dipped in cold water and chill until stiff enough to turn out.

DEVILED EGGS Highly Seasoned Stuffed Eggs Make a Nice Salad. Boil six eggs hard. Remove the shells and cut in halves the long way. Remove the yolks and mince fine.

To the egg yolks add a little mustard, a pinch of salt, dash of pepper, tablespoon of Worcestershire sauce, a little mayonnaise and six tablespoons canned salmon. Mix together thoroughly and fill the whites.

Put on lettuce leaves garnished with parsley and serve.

SPANISH SAUCE RELISH

Green and Ripe Tomatoes Combined in This Delicacy. Take one-half bushel green tomatoes, chop fine, sprinkle with salt and let stand one night and drain.

Take one peck of ripe tomatoes, chop fine; four green peppers, taking the seeds out of two of them; two stalks of celery chopped fine, two pounds of brown sugar, one tablespoon of cinnamon, allspice and cloves, one teaspoon black pepper, one-half teaspoon red pepper, three tablespoons white mustard seed. Mix all together and add one quart vinegar. Boil one hour. Add vinegar as it boils dry. Seal in glass jars.

LATE THAT

But This Was Down by All Ground It Was to Impose Terms

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The State Department today announced that it had received from the German Government a document which it said was a "definite overture" to end the war.

In a 1000-page supply of the 1916 volume of papers with the foreign relations of the United States, the State Department made public for the first time many of the notes and communications which preceded the war.

Many of the notes between the American Government and the German Government already in the public domain, and between this country and the German Government, were made public. The first document in the collection was the memorandum for the State Department by Frank L. Polk, then Secretary of State, dated Jan. 1, 1916, in which he reported to the President the German response to the latter's information on action taken by the department in protest against acts of belligerent nations.

The documents showed the early efforts in 1916 to bring about the prospect of a peace conference of the Balkan countries, the war, particularly in the case of Rumania, and the concerted unification of efforts to stem the tide which threatened.

Closely following in the early efforts toward peace were communications between the State Department and the German Government on this subject.

One of the messages, James W. Gerard, then Ambassador to Germany, A. 1916, in which the German Government had "best reason" to believe that the United States would welcome the peace move of (President Wilson) steps he may take.

This message was a long conversation with the German Ambassador in Washington. A few days later from Madrid, that the German Government was ready to co-operate with Wilson to obtain peace.

Another German message, dated Jan. 1, 1916, in which the German Government offered to accept a peace conference, and as propaganda to the Allies, was forwarded by the German Government to the State Department.

Other overtures were mainly informal, in Germany, Austria-Hungary, with ending the war.

Talk of peace also came from the other belligerent countries, the subject of discussions, the documents among the diplomats.

The Central Powers, 1916, communicated peace offer to the Allies, transmitted by the German Government to the State Department for presentation to the Allies.

EARLY EFFORTS TO END WORLD WAR DISCLOSED

State Department Publishes Documents of 1916—American Mediation Desired by Germany.

DEFINITE OVERTURE LATE THAT YEAR

But This Was Turned Down by Allies on Ground It Was Scheme
to Impose Terms.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—The curtain of secrecy behind which many of the international negotiations preceding the entrance of the United States into the World War were conducted was removed today by the State Department.

In a 1000-page supplement to the 1916 volume of papers dealing with the foreign relations of the United States, the department made public for the first time details of many of the events of that period.

Many of the notes between the American Government and the nations already in the World War and between this country and other neutrals at the time of exchange were made public.

The first document in the publication was the memorandum sent by Frank L. Polk, then counselor for the State Department, to Representative John J. Fitzgerald in response to the latter's request for information on action taken by the department in protest against certain acts of belligerents in violation of international law. This memorandum answered criticism that the department had been unusual in its attitude toward the central powers.

Moves for Peace.
The documents showed the principle attention of the world powers early in 1916 to be centered about the prospect of the smaller countries of the Balkans joining in the war, particularly Albania and Rumania, and the question of united action of the allies efforts to stem the tide of defeat which threatened.

Closely following in interest were
the early efforts toward peace,
the documents presenting a number of communications between the State Department and American diplomats abroad on this subject.

One of the messages was from James W. Gerard, then American Ambassador to Germany, on May 2, 1916, in which the diplomat said he had "best reason to believe Germany will welcome mediation of (President Wilson) and any steps he may take looking to peace."

This message was sent to the State Department by Gerard after a long conversation with the Kanciller. A few days later word came from Madrid that King Alfonso considered the time favorable and was ready to co-operate with President Wilson to obtain peace.

Another German Proposal.
Throughout the year talk of peace revived sporadically, becoming particularly prominent on Sept.
11 through a statement by Germany that if President Wilson would make an offer of good offices in general terms Germany would accept and be ready to send delegates to a peace conference.

In October the British Ambassador informed the Secretary of State that his Government regarded the German peace moves as "insincere and as propaganda to throw the onus of continuing the war on the Allies."

Other overtures were made, mainly informal, in Germany and Austria-Hungary, with a view to ending the war.

Talk of peace also continued in the other belligerent countries and was the subject of extensive discussions, the documents showed,
among the diplomats of neutral powers.

The Central Powers on Dec. 12, 1916, communicated a definite peace offer to the Allies which was transmitted by the American Secretary of State to the representatives here of the Allies on Dec. 16,
for presentation to the Governments concerned. The overtures of the Central Powers were turned down by the Allies.

"In reality the overture made by the Central Powers is but an attempt calculated to work upon the evolution of the war and of finally imposing a German peace,"
the allied Governments' combined
note, forwarded by the American Ambassador in France, William G.
Sharp, to the State Department
Dec. 20, 1916, said.

The document dealing with neutrality rights, most of which previously had been published, traced
the development of American policy on this question, and culminated in the United States declaration to Germany that continued

100-Year-Old Master of Ceremony For Wedding of Bulgarian King

Duke Borea Dolmo Sends Out Invitations to Saturday's Event—Service Expected to Be Simple.

By the Associated Press.
PISA, Italy, Oct. 20.—Invitations to the wedding of King Boris III of Bulgaria and Princess Giovanna of Italy Saturday have gone out from the royal villa at San Rossore.
They are signed by the Duke Borea Dolmo, prefect of the palace and grand master of ceremonies to King Victor Emanuel.
The Duke recently celebrated his 100th birthday. He has been master of ceremonies since 1864 and has ordered the ceremonies for several royal weddings.
Instructions sent with the invitations indicate the wedding will be simple, conforming with Franciscan austerity. The women are required to wear gowns with high necks and long sleeves, with white veils. The wearing of jewelry is forbidden. The men will wear full dress, with their Italian or Bulgarian decorations. Officers will be in full dress uniforms.
The act which will give civil effect to the religious ceremony will be read by Father Rizzo, who will unite the pair. The marriage agreement will be signed by the bride and bridegroom and four witnesses, together with Premier Mussolini and President of the Senate Federzoni, at the Villa Costanzi, Assisi. One copy will be kept by the State, one for court archives and a third for Bulgaria. The entire ceremony, as well as the low mass and procession, probably will take from 10.30 a. m. until noon, when a wedding breakfast is scheduled.

It is stated that the Italian royal family will accompany the newlyweds on a trip to Bulgaria aboard
the Bulgarian ship Ferdinand, arriving at Varna Nov. 1.
Many girls are working in Turin on Giovanna's trousseau, which was ordered by Queen Helen. The garments are entirely handmade,
with flowers worked in red and old gold and a wealth of rich old Bulgarian lace. Giovanna's name in Bulgarian, "Janna," is the marker on the garments.

GEN. PERSHING COMPLETES HIS STORY OF GREAT WAR

Memorandum Giving Account of America's Participation Described as Not Without Humor.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Gen.
John J. Pershing has written his own story of America's participation in the World War. His memoirs are to be added to those of other great military leaders 12 years after the end of the conflict.
Announcement was made today
by the publishers of the 260,000 word record of the American high commander that the book would be ready after it had appeared serially in newspapers. The work is described as an intimate, solidierly account of America's part in the war, not without humor and studded with close-ups of the world figures with whom Gen. Pershing was in constant contact.

The North American Newspaper Alliance is the agency which has acquired the newspaper rights.

UNIQUE TRIBE IN LANGUAGE LIKE ARABIC FOUND IN MEXICO

Members Preserve Oriental Customs in Isolated Mountain Retreat.

By the Associated Press.
TUXTLA, Gutierrez, Chiapas,
Mexico, Oct. 20.—Wandering Turkish merchants, returning here from the Simojovel district have reported discovery of a strange tribe speaking a language similar to Arabic, which inhabits an almost inaccessible mountain retreat there.
The tribe, which calls itself
"Absolutan," preserves Oriental customs, does not speak Spanish or any Indian dialect, and shows no trace of the Mayan civilization which is common in other parts of Chiapas.

The merchants said members of the tribe claimed to have inhabited the region for centuries, remaining entirely apart from the outside world.

RADIO EDUCATION PROGRAM Association Wants Congress to Set Aside Portion of All Channels.

National Education Association is seeking congressional consideration of its proposal that a portion of all available radio channels be set aside for education.
The association wants applied to the air the same principle which activated the Government in apportioning a fraction of the public domain for the encouragement of schools. Its president, Willis
A. Sutton, in a letter addressed to the chairmen of the senate and House Education Committees, urged legislation to preserve 15 per cent of all broadcasting channels for scholastic purposes. He told the two, Senator Metcalf of Rhode Island and Representative
Reed of New York, the association had joined with schools now operating radio stations in indor-ing a resolution for such a reservation of radio channels.

unrestricted submarine warfare would lead to this country's entrance into the war.

The new publication was printed a year ago and prepared for distribution to the press on Aug.
7, 1929, but was withheld until the London naval treaty was ratified.

ANCIENT CHRISTIAN RITE IN ABYSSINIAN RULER'S CROWNING

Ras Tafari and His Queen Will Spend Night Preceding Coronation in Meditation and Prayer.

By the Associated Press.
ADDIS ABABA, Abyssinia, Oct.
20.—The Negus Ras Tafari of Abyssinia and His Queen, Waizeru Menen, who will be crowned Emperor and Empress of Abyssinia on Nov. 2, will spend the entire preceding night in meditation and prayer at St. George's Cathedral.
Outside, thousands of Abyssinian Christians, subjects of the "King of Kings and Lion of Judea," will stand during the night holding lighted candles, sacred images and ecclesiastical banners.
Silently and alone, within the dark cloistered walls of the famous church, built by the Emperor Menelik as a thank-offering for the victory of the Abyssinians over Italian troops in 1895, the two sovereigns throughout the night will invoke the blessings of heaven on their reign, their people and their country.

To Deum in "Geer" Language.
As dawn breaks through the inner sanctuary on coronation day,
the rulers, clad in gorgeous robes of crimson velvet embroidered with gold and set with diamonds, will be crowned by the Coptic Archbishop, assisted by six Bishops.

The Negus will become "His Imperial Highness Haile Selassie."

The Archbishop and the Bishops will pronounce a Te Deum in the "Geer" language, which is the ancient ecclesiastical tongue of Abyssinia.

The crowns today reposed on a high altar in the church, the six bishops praying over them for 21 days before the coronation. The precious stones and gold with which they are set were purchased in Europe and made by master goldsmiths of the country at a cost of $1,000,000.

Kaiser Wilhelm's Old Coach.
The King of Kings will ride in state from his palace to the church in an imperial coach formerly used by Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany and purchased by Abyssinia for $6000. The coach will be drawn by splendid white horses imported from Hungary, driven by the former coachman of the Emperor Joseph of Austria.

Addis Ababa, the country's capital, perched at an altitude of two miles above sea level, has undergone a complete refitting within the past month.
Fifty miles of new highways
have been built, palaces, churches, stores and dwellings have been hastily remodeled, and triumphal arches, electric light displays and pennants and banners have been put up.

All Autos Commandeered.
Thousands of cases of foodstuffs, wines, furniture, carpets and other material for the Emperor and his guests, have recently been brought in from Europe.

The Government has commandeered
all the automobiles, trucks and carriages in the city and taken over the hotels. For three months officials have been working day and night to give the capital a gala dress for the enthronement of the oldest dynasty in the world.

The Abyssinians were converted to Christianity in the fourth century and have kept up their connection with the Alexandrian church through the "Abana," or chief bishop, who is always a Copt and is appointed by the Coptic patriarch of Alexandria.

LOEB CRITICISES SURVEY'S PLAN ON ONE-ROOM SCHOOL

He Thinks That Small Rural Units Should Be Eliminated Because of Inefficiency.

COMMISSION'S IDEA IS GRADUAL CHANGE

Washington U. Dean
Quotes Report to Show
465 Districts With Fewer Than 20 Pupils.

Failure of the State Survey Commission to provide for elimination of the inefficient one-room school house in its report on the public school section of the survey is held by Dr. Isidor Loeb, professor of political science and dean of the School of Business Administration of Washington University, to be one of the chief defects in the proposed plan. Dr. Loeb discussed the recommendations on the school problem in the fifth of a series of articles analyzing the survey for the Associated Industries of Missouri.

Though admitting that the problem presented great difficulties in that many communities would oppose the elimination of the one-room school, Dr. Loeb quoted authorities on its inefficiency and held that the State should not grant huge sums of money as aid to perpetuate it.

In the report of the commission
it was shown that there are in Missouri 7391 such schools, none of which is able to offer adequate educational facilities.

Commission's Plan Gradual.
The commission's plan looks to a gradual elimination of the one-room school through consolidations,
which will be made attractive through the granting of additional State aid, but Dr. Loeb pointed out that the consolidation plan does not become effective for four years and that after that time it is purely voluntary.

"The commission anticipates that the enlargement of the districts will not come at once," he said, "but believes that when the smaller districts which have been reluctant to enter into any enlargement arrangement see the added opportunities afforded those which have taken advantage of enlargement, they will gladly avail themselves of the privilege also."

This optimism is opposed to experience in Missouri and other states. Strong local feeling and neighborhood jealousies and controversies have made the people reluctant to give up the small school districts, however inefficient and expensive they may be.

Dr. Loeb said that the commission's recommendation that the State should undertake to pay the localities the amount by which the cost of adequate public school exceeds the yield of a reasonably low school tax levy, was not influenced solely by a desire to improve the schools, but was influenced also by a desire to equalize the tax burden.

He held this was a sharp reversal of policy in Missouri,
where it has been the custom to stimulate local districts to use their own resources by holding out the promise of State aid. This policy, he said, had been responsible for vast improvements in the system of education.

A Narrow Program.
He then quoted the supplementary report of the commission's educational experts that "in the typical one-room rural schools educational opportunities are almost non-existent. In even the best one-room schools the educational program is of necessity very restricted. In the larger rural schools and especially the consolidated rural schools, educational opportunities are much greater."

In the analysis, Dr. Loeb quoted from the commission's report to show that in 4655 districts there are fewer than 20 pupils in a district, in 2044 from 20 to 30, in 876 from 30 to 50, in 195 from 50
to 80 and in 70 more than 80.

Of the 4655 districts with fewer than 20 pupils, 2714 had less than 15 and 1080 had less than 10.

The experts reported: "In more than 85 per cent of the rural school districts the number of pupils in average daily attendance is so small that the per pupil cost of providing even reasonably good educational opportunities would be excessive."

The commission reported that during a 10-year period the increased cost of its proposed plan for improving the schools would be approximately $100,000,000. Dr.
Loeb said that a continuation of the plan through a second 10-year period would mean an increased cost of $150,000,000 over the present State expenditures for education.

He also said that misleading information had been circulated, though not by the commission, as to the tax saving to local communities which might be expected from the plan.

In the main Dr. Loeb approved
the commission's recommendations,
but in concluding his analysis said that it should be borne in mind that the recommendations included many other features than increased financing for the schools.
The principal of these are the proposed creation of a State board of education, which shall choose the State Superintendent of Schools to replace the present plan of election of the superintendent; creation of a county board of education in each county with power to appoint the County Superintendent of Schools, to replace the present plan of electing him, and providing for higher qualifications for teachers in rural and other elementary schools.

CONSPIRATORS FELL

Rigid Censorship Said to

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Oct. 20.—A European resident in Portugal today brought to London details of an abortive plot early this month to overthrow the Portuguese dictatorship and the Spanish monarchy. The informant said that although the Portuguese Government took extreme measures against the plot, and Lisbon became an armed camp, nothing of the situation was allowed to appear in the press or to be telegraphed abroad. He stated that while the plot was not carried out as planned, Portugal was seething politically and sooner or later the nation would be confronted with serious developments.
The informant says also that the dictatorship of President-General Carmona at the moment appears to be in a very difficult position.

The plot failed, it is stated, because of a quarrel among the conspirators regarding whether Lisbon was to be turned over for three days to mob rule under which heads of the dictatorship would be dealt with summarily. Less radical plotters declined to agree to this and the coup did not materialize.

The coup was expected to be carried out about Oct. 6 in conjunction with a republican uprising in Spain. Republican agitation in various Spanish cities did actually reach a high point just that time, but did not attain the proportions necessary to overthrow the monarchy.

The Government is said to possess evidence that a section of the army made an agreement with the conspirators.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my platform will make no difference in the cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the rights of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely passing laws, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy, or predatory poverty.

Favors Proposition No. 1.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I AM writing to you to promote the adoption of Proposition No. 1 to amend the Constitution of this State by providing increased compensation to the members of the General Assembly, etc.

The proposed amendment fixes the compensation of the members of the General Assembly at $10 per day for 90 days of extra sessions, 100 days for general sessions, and 140 days for revising sessions, and nothing thereafter. The present compensation of members of $5 per day for 70 days for regular sessions and 120 days for revising sessions, with $1 per day thereafter, was fixed in 1875 and under present conditions is not sufficient to pay the expenses of a member during the session of the Assembly. In 1925 the General Assembly was in session 93 days. The length of the session in 1927 was 90 days. Hence, it is believed that 100 days for a regular session is sufficient. The revising session of 1929 was in session 140 days and that is believed to be sufficient time for a revising session.

The amendment limits the number of clerks and employees of the Assembly to 75 for each house. This number will be ample to take care of all business. Of these clerks and employees 141 will be limited to not to exceed $5 per day, while the chief clerk of the House and secretary of the Senate may each receive $10 per day. It cannot be denied that the General Assembly has been extravagant in the matter of its clerical force. It appears from the Session Acts of 1929, page 19, that $665,000 was appropriated for the contingent expenses of the General Assembly and $146,000 for the pay and mileage of its members, making a total in excess of $800,000 appropriated for the cost of the session. The Acts of 1927, page 90, and of 1925, page 87, show the amounts appropriated to have been the same for the sessions of 1926 and 1927, to-wit: $262,750 for each session. It is estimated that had the clerical force as fixed in the present amendment been applied to the sessions of 1925 and 1927 the cost of each session would have been reduced $50,000, and had a similar standard been applied to the recent session of 1929 the cost thereof would have been reduced $400,000.

We feel that the adoption of the amendment providing for increased compensation is an act of justice to the members of the Assembly in giving a sufficient amount to enable them to live in reasonable comfort during the session. It is in the interest of efficiency in modernizing the method of passing bills, and will prevent loading the payrolls with useless employees, and will compel a revision of the statutes every 10 years.

EDWIN J. BEAN.

Chairman Mo. Bar Assn. Committee for Adoption of Prop. No. 1.

Changing Political Types.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR criticism seems to rest their case upon the point that whereas you complain of politicians in the State you want to turn the compensation insurance business over to them. It seems to me you might be given credit for doing your utmost to make State government Missouri the most efficient and efficient in such fields. It goes without saying that a State government controlled by the Becker-Shartel-Brunck type of politician would not be competent to administer anything but a very limited amount of business. The future of the State of their kind look dimmer and the Caulfield type looms bigger.

MISSOURIAN.

Advantages of Curtis Field.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I CANNOT understand the city officials or Congressmen Cochran's viewpoint in insisting upon Lambert airport being designated as the mail depot for the St. Louis district.

To get the quickest service possible, and that is the only advantage of air mail, necessitates having the planes land as close to the St. Louis Postoffice as possible, and they must admit that Curtis Field is three times closer to St. Louis than the municipal field.

As far as congestion of traffic on Free Bridge is concerned, congestion can occur on Natural Bridge road just the same, this possibility being three times greater due to distance. The Eads Bridge can also be used to get to Curtis airport. True, the cost of going over Eads Bridge is 10 cents as against 5 cents for Curtis, but the extra charge included in cost of transportation still makes the trip about half of what it is to Lambert Field. Also, a saving of about 35 minutes in time can be checked off to this advantage.

Using the use of Curtis Field for air mail does not give St. Louis the maximum benefit it can derive from it, and East St. Louis, Granite City, Madison and adjacent towns do not get any benefit at all, while the use of Curtis Field will not only serve St. Louis better, but will also serve the above mentioned area.

FELIX R. CHAUDET.

THE CASE FOR STATE INSURANCE.

The case for State compensation insurance in the economic aspect was conclusively made yesterday in the Post-Dispatch. Missouri employers pay an average of almost 100 per cent more for this kind of insurance than employers in Ohio, where a State fund has been in operation since 1913. The discrepancy in some classes of labor is startling; for example, for the large body of workers under the heading of "Office, Clerical," Missouri employers paid $73,417.66 in premiums; if they were insured in Ohio, the cost would have been only $36,139.22.

It is not possible to make exact statistical comparisons of Missouri and Ohio, because, for one reason, payments under the Missouri workmen's compensation law are higher than those under the Ohio law. However, taking this and other differences into consideration, actuaries estimate that Missouri employers, for want of a state fund, are penalized approximately 30 per cent. They paid premiums totaling $3,571,114 in 1927 and $4,166,007 in 1928. Under state insurance they would have saved more than $2,500,000 in 1927 and nearly $2,800,000 in 1928.

This saving is brought about by the lessened expense of doing business under a state fund. In Missouri private insurance companies are permitted to use for expenses 40 per cent of all premiums collected. Under the proposed State insurance fund, as outlined in Proposition No. 4, not more than 10 per cent of the premiums may be used for expenses. In Ohio the expenses are 5 per cent and in West Virginia, another one of the 17 states having insurance funds, the cost of doing business is only 4 per cent.

But the point need not be labored that Missouri employers would enjoy financial benefits if Proposition No. 4 is successful. Even its bitterest opponents have been silent on that score, and are concentrating their fire on other fronts. One of the most frequent objections made to the plan is that it would put the State into the insurance business. Perhaps the best answer to that was made by George F. Mooney, executive secretary of the Associated Building Contractors of Ohio, who said that while there was much difference of opinion among Ohio employers as to workmen's compensation laws, he knew of no difference as to the advisability of state insurance in a state which has a compensation law. In other words, a state insurance fund is a necessary complement to a workmen's compensation law, and the truth of that has been borne out abundantly by Missouri's experience.

Private insurance companies have grossly abused their privileges under the workmen's compensation law, and have put injured workmen at a hopeless disadvantage. Under the old system, contests over injury cases were provided by ambulance chasing lawyers, who scrupled at nothing to obtain excessive verdicts and who also preyed upon their clients by demanding extortionate fees. The ambulance chasing evil was one of the reasons for the compensation act. But that act, while it removed the ambulance chasers, left the powerful investigating, legal and medical forces of the insurance companies in control of the field. In the usual injury case the amount involved is too small to justify the worker to employ either a lawyer or a doctor in his own behalf. If any knotty legal question happens to be involved, the case is likely to be decided ex parte.

In one case, in which the injured man stood to recover less than $150, a point of law arose which, if settled against the insurance company, would have cost many thousands of dollars in similar cases. The insurance company appealed, but the injured man, lacking the resources to take the case to a higher court, was deserted by his attorney and let the case go by default. By thus contriving to get the law construed to their own point of view, as well as by delays in settling, forcing injured men to take less than they are entitled to receive, and so on, the private insurance companies have succeeded in perverting the spirit and aim of the compensation act.

The incentive for profit, which naturally animates insurance companies, would be removed entirely by the creation of a State insurance fund. The administration of that fund would be devoted to impartial justice, and there could be no motive for any kind of sharp practice designed to shave from an injured workman's compensation any amount to which he is entitled. Such a fund should have been established when the compensation act was passed, and the State Republican platform of 1913 recognized that fact.

Under the special circumstances surrounding workmen's compensation it is beside the point to object to a State insurance fund on the ground "that it puts the State into the insurance business." It is that kind of reasoning which arises from a desire to protect some special interest, regardless of the common good or the true merits of the controversy.

HARD TIMES AND THE WAR DEBTS.

The part that the war debts play in the international economy, and their responsibility for the disappearance of gold from many normal channels of trade, are beginning to claim their proper interest.

The New York World suggests that part postponement of the German reparations may become necessary. It points out that with the Reichsbank forced to sell exchange and raise the discount rate in order to protect the mark, the German Government making new foreign loan to liquidate its floating debt, and German political conditions what they are, it is inevitable that Germany should ask postponement of that part of the reparations payments designated as conditional.

In the fiscal year which ends with next March Germany has agreed to pay under the Young plan some $425,000,000. Of this about $165,000,000 is unconditional and not subject to postponement. The French will get $125,000,000 of it, and they refused to condition the payment. France has herself agreed to repay the United States and Great Britain in the same period $95,000,000 on account of war loans. Great Britain is due to collect $90,000,000 from Germany and to pay $160,000,000 to the United States. Italy is due to receive $39,000,000 from Germany and to pay Great Britain and the United States a total of $25,000,000.

Postponement of the conditioned part of German reparations would therefore increase the burden upon our former allies unless we in turn granted them a moratorium. It is a matter which will press for solution as the true causes of world-wide depression become more emphasized. We have expressed the opinion that our own Government should consider the possible consequences of the Mellon policy as to war debts. It is just possible that Washington may change its mind about it. After all, to unbalance the international economy is a much more serious thing than the world has heretofore realized. To collect the war debts could cost us more than they are worth. If so, that would be worth finding out before too much damage has been done.

PATRIOTISM DOWNS EFFICIENCY.

The civil service law of 1933 provided for competitive examinations to obtain the best qualified applicants for Federal positions. However, the friends of cheap patriotism and vote-getting zeal are reducing this high standard of efficiency to a meaningless gesture. By an executive order of President Coolidge, signed two days before he left office, 10 points are added to the examination ratings of every disabled veteran, and all such veterans are placed at the head of the list, regardless of what grades their competitors made. Thus, in an examination for postal clerk at Washington, D. C., the best grade made by a veteran ranked him 258th on the list. Six veterans failed to receive the passing mark of 70, yet all rated ahead of the first man, who made 98.

As if this were not enough, the amendment of July 3, 1930, to the veterans' act of 1924 opens the gates still wider. It includes under the term, "disabled," all ex-service men incapacitated after their discharge. This action extends preference in examinations to approximately 250,000 more veterans.

There can be no objection to rewarding men who incurred injury in serving their country. Veterans have been generously dealt with by war risk insurance, the bonus, adjusted compensation, free medical care and the wide extension of beneficiaries by last summer's legislation. Yet politicians, out to corral the veteran vote, are always asking for more. The efficiency of the Government these men served should not be impaired by misplaced liberality in rewarding them. The Coolidge order for the added 10 points was intended to aid those who were, by physical handicap, unable to compete on equal terms with the able-bodied. It has resulted in putting inefficient applicants in Government posts, often of a technical nature, and in discouraging skilled persons without war service from seeking these positions.

A survey of recent examinations and appointments has been made by the National Civil Service Reform League. Among its findings it discloses that 269 veterans, who failed to make a passing grade and are not qualified by normal standards, have been placed ahead of 13,000 better qualified candidates. The league has appealed to President Hoover to modify or rescind the Coolidge order. We hope that Mr. Hoover will take this action, in conformance with his veto message on the last compensation grab.

GREAT SMOKY NATIONAL PARK.

Acquisition by the Government of territory in Tennessee and North Carolina for the Great Smoky Mountain National Park, a billion-dollar project, means that the United States is at last turning to natural wonders in parts of the country other than the West. The tract presented by the two states covers 553,876 acres and will form the nucleus for a park of 427,000 acres. Plans have been made for transferring from Western parks men of experience who will take charge of the new area. The Government has acted wisely in selecting the Great Smokies for a national park, for in their wild beauty there is much of true grandeur. The chain, about 50 miles in length, contains Mount Guyot and Clingman's Dome, both well over 6000 feet high. The creation of the park recalls the stories of Mary Noailles Murfree, a native Tennessean, who, after residence in St. Louis went back to the mountains to produce careful studies of life in their hazy recesses. For years she wrote under the name of Charles Egbert Craddock, and her work was thought to be that of a man. "In the Tennessee Mountains," "The Prophet of the Great Smoky Mountains," "Down the Ravine," "The Story of Keendon Bluff" and "The Mystery of Witchface Mountain" were stories which made the territory of the new park well known to readers of the '90s and '00s.

OUR TIMID BANDIT.

Long hours and overwork seem to be having their effect on the stick-up men, for some of them have been acting rather jumpy of late. All was going well in a New York theater office hold-up the other night, with two watchmen safely tied up and the safe about to yield several thousand dollars to an educated jimmy, when there was a loud rustling sound in the waste-paper basket. It was only a mouse rummaging about, but the robbers didn't stop to investigate—they fled. A few days before, two efficient young thugs handcuffed seven men in a Brooklyn bank, and sat down to wait for the cashier to show up with the combination to the safe, which contained $50,000. An 11-year-old girl came to the door, saw the robbers and fled screaming. This so frightened the robbers that they also ran away.

Hold-up men are still able to handle the big problems of their profession effectively; for instance, three of them got $1700 in a St. Louis pool hall the other morning so adroitly that two detectives in the place didn't know what was going on. But it's the little things that get on their nerves.

THOSE WICKED BRAZILIANS.

Only a few weeks ago Secretary Hyde was assuring the farmers that all their troubles were due to those conniving Russians, who were selling short in Chicago, dumping wheat in Liverpool and otherwise undermining American agriculture. Now another administration spokesman, Vice President Curtis, tells them that the depression started in Brazil and then "spread all over the world." Thus the Brazilians are added to the list of agriculture's public enemies, along with the Russians and the corn borer.

The part played by Brazilian villainies seems a bit difficult to understand, but Mr. Curtis will doubtless be able to explain it. During the 1928 campaign, it will be recalled, he made himself immortal as "Raz Charlie" by blaming Chinese eggs for the troubles of the American poultry raiser. Brazil is supposed to be having its civil war because of economic unrest induced by an oversupply of coffee and political unrest left by the last election. Since coffee culture in the United States isn't even an infant industry, and since our farmers have no more interest than a rabbit in Brazilian politics, it is hard to imagine why they should become depressed merely because Brazil goes on the warpath.

All those who agree with Mr. Curtis' ingenious theory we nominate for charter membership in the Ancient and Elegant Order of Brazil Nuts. Most of them doubtless belong already to the Antique and Oriental Order of Chinese Eggs.

"THE MELANCHOLY DAYS ARE COME"

Press Opinion on the Harding Tomb

Difficulty in getting classic memorial at Marion dedicated a severe reflection on the "Ohio gang," says Cleveland Plain Dealer; in it the Milwaukee Journal sees a grim reminder that American people allowed a group of men to do violence to the country; ceremony should wait until "a President will not have to be importuned," believes the New York World.

A PROPER QUESTION.

From the Boston Daily News.

A MEMORIAL to a dead President demands the attendance of a living President. Mr. Coolidge, who also sat, as Vice President, in Mr. Harding's Cabinet council, made long presidential trips, but he never was able, as President, to get time to travel to Marion to dedicate the memorial to his old chief.

The Hoover administration is a year and a half gone; and yet the memorial at Marion awaits its official honors. Messrs. Hoover, Coolidge, Hughes, Mellon and their party never disowned Harding while he was alive. Why this strange effort to ignore and forget him, now he is dead? It is not strange that Harry Daugherty who, whatever his manifold faults, should be raising a question now which concerns one of the most extraordinary postures of these times.

LET IT WAIT.

From the New York World.

IT seems that there have been no direct invitations, but in various ways word has been conveyed back and forth which has not done much to help the situation. It is no doubt that the present occupant of the White House would hardly welcome the assignment of this role to him. At the same time it seems that none other than a President would be the appropriate person to make the speech of dedication. When the time comes that a President will not have to be importuned to perform this service the association may bring up the matter again. Until then it should wait.

OMISSION SPEAKS VOLUMES.

From the Milwaukee Journal.

THE tomb draws more notice today than it has in the past. It is possible that the omission of a name from the list of those who are to be honored at the dedication of the memorial at Marion, Ohio, is a significant statement. It is a statement that the people of America are not willing to honor a man who was a part of the Harding administration. It is a statement that the people of America are not willing to honor a man who was a part of the Harding administration.

It is a statement that the people of America are not willing to honor a man who was a part of the Harding administration. It is a statement that the people of America are not willing to honor a man who was a part of the Harding administration. It is a statement that the people of America are not willing to honor a man who was a part of the Harding administration.

MONUMENT TO POLITICAL COWARDICE.

From the Arkansas Democrat.

THE tomb stands as an everlasting shaft to the "memory" of an act of political cowardice perhaps unparalleled in our history. It perpetuates a story of ingratitude and treachery and the very thought of its existence must send shivers down the spine of some of the nation's coldest. It is a fine commentary on the high Christian principles of American politics. The body of Warren

G. Harding lies in that ignored tomb and in all the ranks of Republican chiefs there is none so poor to do him reverence. Weak though he was, he was a titan as compared with some of those who became his political heirs and assigns.

EARLY DEDICATION DESIRABLE.

From the Illinois State Register.

IN view of the vast amount of loose talk that has been going the rounds as to the "delay" in staging this ceremony, it is to be hoped that this formality of an invitation will be gone through with at the earliest opportunity, that a definite date may be set. Gratuitous rumors have been circulated to the effect that the successors of the late Mr. Harding in the executive chair have sought to avoid the leading role in such a ceremony.

LIPLESS LIBEL.

From the Baltimore Sun.

A late Mr. Harding did not always leave the room at the mention of a rye highball. It is understood, in fact, that he knew the significance of four aces. As a public man, he was friendly, well-meaning, weak-willed and surrounded by a strange assortment of adventures and placemen. He was a glorified passenger on the band-wagon of the Ohio gang. The natural result was that his administration was a failure and a disgrace.

Somewhere in the present administration ought to have welcomed the opportunity to make the Marion memorial address, if for no other reason than the chance to demonstrate surpassing rhetorical skill and judgment in the selection of material.

SOMETHING NEW TO SHOOT AT.

From the Topics Daily Capital.

IT seems to be settled that the splendid Harding memorial at Marion, O., will not be dedicated, no American of sufficient distinction desiring to deliver the memorial oration. Yet it was Charles E. Hughes who delivered the Harding memorial oration in Congress and found plenty to say. The debunking biography writers now have something to shoot at.

REFLECTION ON THE OHIO GANG.

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ONE may venture to assume that the difficulty in getting the Harding memorial dedicated is not attributable to the widely disseminated scandal stories affecting the President's private life. It is due to the appalling official record of the administration. In other words Mr. Harding, whom Harry Daugherty calls a great President, was responsible for the brief but active rule of the "Ohio gang," and the fact that neither Mr. Coolidge nor President Hoover has been willing to play the leading role in the ceremony of posthumous glorification is no proper cause of censorious comment by Harry Daugherty. It would, indeed, be more fitting for Mr. Daugherty to deny himself the pleasure of any comment whatever.

WHAT THE ARCHITECTS SAY.

From the New York Times.

AMONG the finest 12 of its kind in the world.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.

ON the third floor of the National Museum in the capital, in an office almost obscured by filing cases which reach from floor to ceiling, may be found a kindly and elderly scientist. His name is Ale Hrdlicka (pronounced "Erd-lah-ka")—curator of the department of physical anthropology of the Smithsonian Institution.

Dr. Hrdlicka is an unfamiliar figure to the greater part of Washington, yet in the field of science he is a recognized authority. Possessed of a manner that charms, able to interest the most uninterested layman in his work in anthropology, he has enthusiasm and energy which never cease to be a marvel to his associates.

DESPISE his 61 years, Dr. Hrdlicka is the greater part of his life with the vigor of youth. He has just returned to Washington from an extended expedition to Alaska where he conducted a series of investigations among the Indians and Eskimos. Though he was subjected to unusual hardships, he dismisses them lightly with the statement that one must expect such things.

"You either can stand it or you can't," he says. "That's all there is to it." This latest expedition, which he made alone as he usually does, was not his first to Alaska. On his expeditions, he moves too fast and covers too much territory to have many along with him. He prefers to go it alone, with only sufficient supplies for himself, and rely on the natives for assistance when needed. In this fashion he has explored many corners of the world.

DR. HRDLICKA regards as the most interesting part of his work in anthropology a study which began back in 1916 and only now has been brought to a conclusion. It is concerned with the animal instincts of children. He first became interested in this study more than 10 years ago when, while among a tribe of Indians, he saw a child running around—rather than crawling—on all fours.

From that time to the present he has gathered material along this line. There is now being published the result of his investigations, gathered in places as far apart as the United States in Washington and as far as the outposts of civilization.

A native Bohemian, Dr. Hrdlicka speaks with a pronounced accent. He is never too busy to stop his work and talk with visitors about anthropology. His work is soft and musical. His lectures in Washington invariably draw capacity audiences.

STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE OF BOTTLES.

From the Portland Oregonian.

HOPS are one of the principal ingredients of beer and are produced in large quantities in the United States than in any other country, though beer is produced in this Republic. In the last three years American production exceeded that of Britain, and that of last year was the largest since the war. But of a total of 13,250,000 bushels about 5,000,000 were exported. To use the term of the Commerce Department, the "local disappearance" in 1929 was 26,500,000 bushels, or 75 per cent of the total, and it is steadily increasing. It is possible that all that hops "disappeared" into home brew?

For the Complacent Modernist

THOSE EARNEST VICTORIANS. By Esme Wingfield-Stratford. (Wm. Morrow & Co., New York City. $3.50.)

IF, in our civilization, there is a thing to be proud of, it is the catastrophe that some believe to be inherent in its structure. The time must come when it will be seen clearly that the boasted sophistication of our day presented a curious paradox in that it was essentially naive. The substitution of this view may conceivably begin with the economic gospel of universal prosperity through waste. It may continue with a consideration of our temperate scientific optimism based upon what may then seem the very curious belief that things may be achieved by vastly increasing the power man wields without increasing his wisdom to use it humanely. And in spite of our boast that superstition is a thing of the historical twilight that preceded our incandescent dawn, it may be shown with no great difficulty that we failed to recognize our overwhelming superstitions because they were new and ours. One of these superstitions might be concerned with the obvious and generally unconsidered persuasion of our day that "truth" must be something objective, to be pursued and captured in the world of sense by the method of physical science; that if by this process, any hitherto alleged truth can not be captured, it was never "real" and therefore of no value to men; that it is possible to live hungrily merely by what we may discover by improved means of sense exploration of our phenomenal world, and that any construction in consciousness out of the dreams and hopes and deep desires and experiences of men is sure to be "the bunk." In that future time it may even be understood by a very considerable minority that man is the artist animal, living by virtue of the "truth" he creates, and that such truth is better or worse in proportion as its effect upon the society that cherishes it is conducive to humane relations.

But one of the most amusing aspects of the naïveté that lurks in our boasted sophistication must be the enthusiasm with which we are prone to congratulate ourselves upon our superlative acumen in choosing this the only modern aspect of all history as the time to be born.

For some years now our spokesmen of the intelligentsia have been catering their vanity and ours and arousing our scornful laugh by showing how foolishly funny certain decades and eras were. Absurd as it may seem, they simply weren't modern at all! Some of us, while willing to grant the follies of past generations and the relative queerness of their ways, have been too troubled to laugh heartily—troubled with a reasonable suspicion that the men in human nature—far from being dead—may be doing a good

ONCE upon a time there was a college, dear old Upton, a modern fondling asylum, which had a good football team except for the fact that it needed a couple of backs, a quarter who could pass the ball and a line able to hold 'em once in awhile. Aside from that it was team was O. K., as it did, Joe E. Brown who was good for a laugh every time he put on his gridiron togs. Upton had a quiet president, one of those queer old professors who had never gotten over the idea that there should be a class room some where around every college. Of course he was hopelessly out of date, but he was a good fellow, a widower, set about to make matters right. The first thing she did was to transform herself completely and become a ravishing beauty by the simple expedient of taking off her dress and putting on a modish one. At that moment no one even suspected that she was pretty even though she was Joan Bennett. The cinema customers know Joan but the college boys it seems never heard of her. Well, with her glasses off, Joan made a flying trip around the United States and persuaded every good football star in the country to kick his alma mammy in the States and sign up with Upton. The next big game puts Upton on the map and Joan and one of the stars decide to make up a team of their own for the rest of the year. That's the not very "original story" of "Maybe It's Love," at the Mississippi. But Joe Brown makes it an amusing and most enjoyable picture.

The production of beer in the United States was the largest in the world. But of a total of $2,250,000, only about $600,000 were exported. The term of the Commerce department is the "local disappearance" of $1,650,000, or 75 per cent of the total. It is steadily increasing and it is all that hops "disappeared" crew?

SPARKLING COMEDY REOPENS AMERICAN

'Strictly Dishonorable' a Risqué Offering Which is Delightfully Played by Fine Cast.

STRICTLY DISHONORABLE, a comedy in three acts by Preston Sturges. Presented at the American Theater with the following cast: John Robb, Mario, a Walter, Guido Alexander, Tomaso Antiovi, Ralph Locke, Judge Denney, Lee Baker, Henry Greene, George Mosher, Isabelle Parry, Florella Fairbanks, Count Di Ruvo, Lino Mancini, Patrolman Mulligan, Jerome Daley.

By H. H. NIEMEYER.

THE dramatic season in St. Louis, already some three or four weeks old, started, as far as the American Theater is concerned, last night, with the opening performance of "Strictly Dishonorable," a comedy by Preston Sturges which has been running with huge success, for more than a year in New York. As it is still on the boards in the Metropolitan, the company presenting Mr. Sturges' play here is not the original one. Instead, it is an organization put together by Producer Brock Pemberton as one of 10 companies to give the play upon the road. This particular cast of artists comes from the West Coast and, from all believe everything you see in the newspapers, is headed for England, where it is expected to settle down for a long run—the British play censor being agreeable.

For "Strictly Dishonorable" is strictly frank in its conversation and theme. Not that it is indecent or vulgar. Rather, one would say that it is, at times, indelicate. In the hands of an incompetent cast, or a company of players wishing to make it so, the play could easily become objectionable, but as played last night, it is a delightful comedy at which only the most squeamish of theatergoers—if, indeed, there are any of that brand left in these days of rather wide open discussion of sex complications—could be mildly shocked.

We were not among those who saw "Strictly Dishonorable" in New York—theater prices being what they are there and Brock Pemberton being in conference on the two occasions when we called at his office to inquire into the pass situation. We would venture the guess, however, that the company here in St. Louis this week is, in every way, the equal of the New York organization and that the members of the cast know, quite as well how to keep the risqué lines entirely within bounds.

That being the case let it be said that "Strictly Dishonorable" is the story of a charming girl from Yokum, Missouri, who lands in the North to visit the family of her fiancé who is a go-getter living in Orange, N. J. She is not really in love with the man she is going to marry and one evening, in a New York speakeasy, she shows herself to be a domineering tyrant who plans to make her life over to suit her own ideas. Into the speakeasy, just at the opportune moment, walks Count Di Ruvo, a grand opera singer who devotes his spare time to the ladies. When the gentleman from New Jersey storms out of the place the singer offers the hospitality of his apartment upstairs and the scene shifts to his combination bed and living room.

It is there that the situation promises—perhaps threaten would be better—to become strictly dishonorable. The young woman has fallen head over heels in love with her new found protector and is perfectly agreeable to accepting anything he may have to offer. Another occupant of the same building, however, is a kindly old Judge who does his best to prevent anything happening which should not happen but, in the end, it is the singer, himself, who decides, for once in his life, at least to take the honorable road and the situation is saved with mythical wedding bells ringing out and the scent of equally mythical orange blossoms prevailing the theater.

You can see, therefore, that the whole affair might be very bad indeed. A wink or a smile from the young woman at the wrong moment could turn the piece into a play of the gutter but, as Miss Florella Fairbanks, niece of Douglas Fairbanks, acts the role of the comedy is charming and delightful and most excellent entertainment of the more, or, perhaps, most sophisticated sort. Lino Mancini as the opera gentleman who suggests the late Rudolph Valentino is perfectly cast and Lee Joseph, Mr. Sturges' fine barfly Judge who knows what's right and what's wrong. Splendid, too, is Ralph Locke as the proprietor of the speakeasy who is accustomed to seeing ladies in the singer's apartment at breakfast time, and George Meeker is the go-getter who knows how to sell bonds but is not used to handling women.

familiar. As might be expected, there is a theme song—and Lupe sings "Chinese Lullaby"—and sings it very nicely, too.

Never the Twain Shall Meet. W HOOPEE Lupe Velez has been tamed down a lot for the role of the little Chinese girl in "East Is West" at the St. Louis and, as a result, does not show up to any tremendous advantage, and Lewis Ayres, who leaped into fame over night in "All Quiet on the Western Front," is not so hot without his German uniform. Fay Bainter played the piece in the old days on the stage and the story about the China girl who loved an American and got into all sorts of trouble as a result, is reasonably

THE REV. H. J. BARTELS DIES; PASTOR 55 YEARS

Succumbs to Paralytic Stroke at 80 — Body to Lie in State.

The Rev. Herman J. Bartels, pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church for 55 years, died at his home, 2725 Morganford road, early yesterday, following a paralytic stroke.

He took charge of the church, then as now at Morganford road and Chippewa street, in 1875, shortly after his ordination at Concordia Seminary. He remained active until a month ago, despite his 80 years. For several years he had ranked as the oldest St. Louis Protestant minister in point of service.

The body will lie in state at the church until 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, when funeral services will be held. Burial will be at Concordia Seminary. Surviving are his widow, three daughters, five sons and 31 grandchildren. A native of Germany, the Rev. Mr. Bartels came to the United States at 18, and settled in Perry County, Missouri, where Concordia Seminary was then located. Throughout his service at St. John's Church, he preached each Sunday in his native tongue. In recent years his assistant, the Rev. Paul Hansen, conducted services in English.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK. DIARY of a modern Peppercorn: Up early shouting anathemas on the mad riveting, and cleaning out an old chest upon a hilarious original by "Ding" of the late Clara Briggs and dusted it off to take to the framer along with a kodak of the late Will Hogg and his dog Gilly.

So at the mail, finding cheering notes from Sinclair Lewis, Adolphe Menjou and Edna Hibbard, then at a window watching a sluicing shower, my poor head filled with noble thoughts, but few words to express them. And stifled an urge to attack an inoffensive piano tuner in the adjoining room.

LITERATURE of the day is again being enriched by E. S. Martin, its one-time editor, in Life. Few editorialists have been as consistently clean and interesting so many years.

EXISTENCE would perk up, too, if some producer would wangle a fortnight play for the extraordinarily fine talents of Pauline Lord. When she becomes inarticulate and twists her handkerchief into a tressed ball, even ushers snifle. Only one role—that of "Annie Christie"—came within a mile of measuring up to her art.

PERSONAL nomination for the hardest boiled theatrical audience in town—that Saturday matinee gang at the Palace.

"HONOR system" restaurants are getting a play in New York. A recent one opened on Fifty-first street near Park avenue. Hereafter they have been confined to eat-and-run lunches beginning tomorrow at Hotel Jefferson. Prizes are offered for best downtown. The idea is simple: Patrons select food, carry it on trays to tables, eat and tell the cashier the amount on the way out. The less through dishonesty is reputed less than one-third of 1 per cent.

ONE of the last of the vanishing old guard to continue the ancient 1 o'clock promenade on Fifth avenue is the millionaire octogenarian, August Hecksher. Each pleasant late afternoon, he walks briskly from his Vanderbilt avenue office to his home on Park via Fifth. His cheeks are rosy, his step buoyant and in his eyes is that old unwinning brightness of enthusiastic youth.

BUT much of the Fifth avenue 5 o'clock verve has gone. To me it will never be the same without Mrs. Belmont's coach and four, tooling gaily from the Plaza fountain to the Washington Arch and back again. Every few blocks a herald would trumpet the approach and the avenue would pause and pivot slowly. Like so many other useless brilliances, it went out with the war.

FROM a news item: "He was giving a dinner to six men friends when his wife came in, slapped him, pulled the cloth from the table and chased the cook out a rear end."

ARBOS REHEARSING SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

Spanish Conductor Begins Preparation for First of Season's Concerts on Oct. 31.

Enrique Fernandez Arbos, the Spanish conductor who will direct the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra for half of the 1930-1931 season, began rehearsals this morning. He arrived in St. Louis from New York yesterday afternoon but most of his summer had been spent in California where he directed concerts, with great success, in San Francisco and at the Hollywood Bowl.

Arbos has already prepared his programs for his nine pairs of subscription concerts here though there will probably be some alterations because of changes in the dates on which soloists will appear.

He said that in preparing the programs he considered only interesting and important works and within that limitation tried to find a representative number of first-class novelties. He will also play several standard works which have not been heard in St. Louis for a long time, such as Richard Strauss' "Rosenkavalier" Waltzes, Beethoven's Second Symphony, Ravel's "Mother Goose" suite and the Prelude to the third act of "Tristan and Isolde."

Among these works never played in St. Louis and which will figure prominently in Arbos' programs are the Mousorgsky-Ravel "Pictures at an Exhibition," the "Villanelle-Arbos," "Catalonia," "Villanelle" by the Spanish contemporary composer, Conrado Delcampe, and a new symphony by Miascowsky.

Arbos said that directing concerts in the Hollywood Bowl before an audience of 20,000 was an amazing experience for any conductor.

"I was surprised to find not only that the whole audience could hear the music, but that the most delicate effects were possible," he said. "The acoustic properties are better than in many enclosed halls."

The first concert of the St. Louis orchestra will take place on the afternoon of Oct. 31 and the evening of Nov. 1. Following is the program:

Egmont Overture ..... Beethoven
Symphony in E Flat ..... Mozart
Mother Goose, Suite ..... Ravel

"Lazy" Said the Boss "Acidity" Said the Doctor!

Charged with laziness—guilty simply of acidity! That's the situation with many men today. They realize that they are not themselves—they're conscious of a vague, tired feeling that's always with them—they know they have to pull themselves together for each and every task—but they can't tell what's the trouble. They're branded as lazy and ambitious, when the real truth is that they're sick men—victims of acidity.

Acidity, due to our unnatural eating habits, irregular hours and other violations of Nature's laws, causes acid-indigestion, with gas, sourness and burning. Also, it sets up fermentation and putrefaction in the intestinal tract, which forms poisons that sap our strength and vitality, irritate our nerves, spoil our sleep and make us weak, listless and chronically tired.

To correct acidity a remarkable new product has been developed by a 100-year-old pharmaceutical house in Germany. It comes in the form of small white tablets called Magnesia Oxids, which do not have to be chewed but may be swallowed whole.

Magnesia Oxids upon contact with the acid in the stomach, generate nascent, or active oxygen. Now, active oxygen, as any doctor will tell you, when generated within the digestive tract, does just the things required for acidity. It stimulates the secretion of the alkaline mucus. It checks the putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal. It stimulates the activities of the intestinal walls and aids the natural movement of the bowels. All three effects are necessary to the true relief of acidity and Magnesia Oxids supply them in a perfectly natural manner.

Make This Acidity Test
See for yourself how much acid has to do with your sleeplessness, your run-down condition and that persistent feeling of tiredness. Make this acidity test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxids from Walgreen's Drug Store or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal. Note the pick-up in your energy and vigor. Mark the new peace of your stomach and nerves. If, after taking contents of one bottle, you don't feel decidedly better, return the bottle and the druggist will promptly and cheerfully refund your money.

WHEN CHILDREN FRET

MANY things can make a youngster fretful—sluggish bowels; a touch of colic; when teething or at other trying times. But there's only one remedy a mother should ever use to comfort an ailing child in any of these conditions. Castoria!

This pure old-fashioned remedy most mothers have learned to depend on, comforts a child like nothing else. It has an important place in five million modern homes where mothers keep it always on hand, so they will be ready to render first aid when a child is ailing.

Watch your child's tongue; when it is coated, or whenever the breath is unpleasant, let this pure vegetable preparation come to the aid of that sour stomach or inactive bowels.

The beauty of Castoria is that it can be given as often as needed. It contains no harmful ingredients. The recipe on the wrapper tells you how mild and bland it is. It is a children's remedy, made especially for the children. Ideal for infants—yet effective in larger doses for a child in his teens.

U. S. REVENUE DROPS IN 3-MONTH PERIOD

Government Receipts $62,471,000 Less Than in First Quarter of Previous Fiscal Year

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—A decrease of $62,471,000 in Government tax receipts in the first quarter of the present fiscal year, as compared with the same period last year is announced by the Internal Revenue Bureau.

From July 1 to Sept. 30 the Government income from all tax sources was $708,363,707, as compared with $770,835,212 in the first three months of the last fiscal year.

The major part of the decrease occurred last month when the tax collections dropped $48,847,552 from $592,983,224 for September, 1929.

Only six of the 36 classes of taxes showed increases, and they were minor items. Income taxes registered the greatest drop, being $55,740,192 less than collections in the first three months last year. Corporation tax collections declined $14,055,350, while individual income tax receipts decreased $41,684,842. The total income tax receipts from July 1 to Sept. 30 were $553,725,874, composed of $302,675,618 corporation taxes and $251,050,256 individual.

Increases in Some Lines.
The classes that showed increases included taxes on rectifiers, retail and wholesale liquor dealers, manufacturers of stills, etc., case stamps for distilled spirits bottled in bond and brewers, retail and wholesale dealers in malt liquors. The increases in these divisions totaled only $274.

The tobacco tax was the only general subdivision that showed an increase, and this was due to a jump in the manufacture of cigarettes and cigarette papers. Cigarettes paid $97,881,500 for the first quarter compared with $96,020,214 last year, while cigarette papers paid $413,373 this quarter as against $376,096 a year ago. The total tobacco tax, however, was only $9,450 more in the first quarter of this year, due to decreases in large and small cigars, large cigarettes, snuff and chewing and smoking tobacco.

Documentary stamp tax receipts which advanced during the stock market boom dropped away $7,326,343, showing a decrease from $24,606,196 in the first quarter of last year to $16,642,835 this year. Of this decrease $2,507,556 occurred last month.

Decline in Security Taxes.
Taxes on bonds of individuals, capital stock issues, etc., and on capital stock sales or transfers, which had increased during the stock market boom, dropped $1,350,770 and $3,314,147 respectively. The playing card tax declined from $864,584 in the first three months of the last fiscal year to $827,701.

Miscellaneous taxes dropped from $3,330,402 for the first quarter of the last year to $1,369,138 for the same period this year. The greater part of the decrease in tax collections was due to the drop in income taxes collected last month as compared to those received in September last year. The collections this September were $497,288,740 as compared to $542,065,837 last year. Among the major tax items only those on the transfer of estates of decedents showed an increase, advancing from $9,549,128 in the first three months last year to $3,318,330 this year.

SERGEANT THOMAS SELLER, 26 YEARS ON POLICE FORCE, DIES
Succumbs to Heart Attack After Collapsing at Home on Return From Duty.

Police Sergeant Thomas SELLER, a policeman and detective for 26 years, died suddenly of heart disease yesterday at his home, 1379 Burd avenue. Going home after a night shift as Acting Lieutenant at North Market Street Station, he collapsed in his bedroom and succumbed before a physician arrived.

Seller joined the force in 1904 and was made a detective sergeant in 1915, serving several years as a member of the homicide squad. He was returned to uniform duty in 1925 and since has been connected with Deer Street, Newstead Avenue, Page Boulevard and North Market Streets districts.

In 1925, while in civilian clothes, he shot and killed two youths who tried to hold him up near his home.

Before becoming a policeman, SELLER was a professional baseball player with minor league clubs. He was 58 years old, a widower, and is survived by four sons and four daughters. Plans are being made for a funeral with police honors on Wednesday afternoon.

On Oct. 6 Government troops occupied all the key positions in Lisbon, and the ministries and other public buildings were picketed. Heavy artillery was brought into the capital, the Casino was closed and all roads were cleared of traffic to permit passage of artillery. All motorists were searched for arms and many suspects were arrested. A censorship was enforced and nothing was allowed to leak out regarding the projected coup. The informant declared that, despite appearances of outward tranquility, the dictatorship is faced with great difficulties. Trade is bad and there are many bankruptcies. There is unemployment in all branches of trade and industry.

MARRIED ON A BET, GETS DIVORCE FROM BROKER'S CLERK

Mrs. Lea Kahle, 16, Tells Judge Married Wedding Was "Just a Dumb Stunt."

"How," asked Circuit Judge Rosekopf, bewildered in his countenance, "did you happen to get married without talking it over a little beforehand?"

"Judge, it was just a dumb stunt," confessed Mrs. Lea Kahle, 19 years old, attractive stenographer in a brokerage office. Mrs. Kahle, who obtained a divorce on the ground of vagrancy, and restoration of her maiden name, Hopkins, today in Judge Rosekopf's Domestic Relations Court, had related she found out after she married Wilbur L. Kahle, 21, clerk in another broker's office, that he was making $85 a month instead of $155.

She said he failed to support her and told her he would not, and that he was not now employed. She testified she paid board at the home of his parents after the marriage, which took place June 25 at St. Charles, until she decided to leave him and find another place to board July 15.

"How long had you known him?" pursued Judge Rosekopf. "Two weeks," she answered. "I guess that was just another dumb stunt," remarked the court. "How did you happen to get married?"

"It was on a bet," responded Mrs. Kahle. "Some of our friends where we worked said, 'You won't dare do it'—so we did."

STOCKS GAIN GENERALLY BUT TRADING RATHER DULL

Day's Transactions Aggregate Only 2,200,000 Shares but Net Advances of 4 to 11 Points. Are Numerous Among Active Issues.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The stock market made a steep ascent with little effort today, as liquidation had virtually disappeared over the week-end, and bears were forced to fill their short contracts by bidding against each other.

Although the day's transactions aggregated only 2,200,000 shares, net advances of 4 to 11 points were numerous among active issues. The market rose almost steadily, and closed virtually at the day's best.

U. S. Steel, United Aircraft, Macy, American & Foreign Power, Johns-Manville, Electric Power & Light, Auburn and American Tobacco B gained 4 points or more; American Can, Air Reduction, Byers, Eastman, Union Pacific and Westinghouse Electric 5 to 6 points; Atchafalaya and Case 7 and Allied Chemical and International Business Machine 11 points. Advances of 2 to 3 points appeared throughout the list.

Commodities in Fair Gains.
The trend of the speculative markets generally was upward. Commodities made fair gains, and foreign exchanges were buoyant along with stocks. News of the upholding of the Brüning government in Germany was factor in the strength of both stocks and exchange rates, for the large gains of the radical parties in the recent German elections had caused considerable uneasiness.

Stocks, also, were helped by the determined support accorded important shares Saturday. While an important part of the day's buying appeared to be short covering, loan figures have indicated that stocks have been working steadily into stronger hands, and constantly improving the market's technical position.

Wheat futures, old contracts, closed 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents higher, reflecting a decrease in the visible supply, and cold weather in Canada. Corn gained 1 1/4 to 2 1/2 cents, also influenced by bullish weather. Cotton futures gained 15 to 20 cents a bale.

The German mark shot up 4 1/2 points to 22.53 1/4 cents for Cables, and other leading European rates were strong. The Spanish peseta jumped 19 points to 16.34 cents, demand, presumably reflecting efforts of the Government to support it.

An almost steady decline of about five weeks finds few precedents in stock market history, and the feeling has gained ground in speculative circles that the bottom must have been reached, at least temporarily.

One observer points out that the persistence of important liquidation after short-term money rates have been established at extremely low rates has occurred only once previously in the past three decades, namely, in 1914, when the outbreak of the World War completely clouded the speculative outlook. With the present business recession, political uncertainties abroad have been an aggravating factor, so the failure of extremists in the German Reichstag to upset the Government was decidedly helpful to Wall Street sentiment.

Business news and surveys appearing over the week-end were still mixed. Reports from steel and automotive centers in the main failed to provide much cheer, although some independent steel mills reported increases in bookings. The mid-month survey of the Irving Trust Co. stressed the fact that collections have improved in some cities for the first time in months.

A survey of chain stores sales for September revealed the first increase since April, despite a further decline in commodity prices. Colder weather appearing over the week-end was favorably regarded as an impetus to purchases of seasonal merchandise. Call money remained unchanged at 2 per cent. The demand was light.

BEARS FACE FOUR SUCCESSIVE GAMES WITH STRONG VALLEY ELEVENS

BILLIKENS PLAY NO GAME UNTIL ROLLA CONTEST ON OCTOBER 31

By James M. Gould.

All will be quiet along the college football front in St. Louis this week-end. The Bears of Washington University are scheduled to open their Missouri Valley Conference season in a Friday night game with the strong Oklahoma Aggies at Stillwater while the Billikens of St. Louis University are not booked to play again until Oct. 31 when they meet the Rolla Miners here.

The Washington team will depart for points South Wednesday night. Arriving in Stillwater, Okla., Thursday afternoon, they will practice at the high school field there and, the following day, ride a bus over to Stillwater for the game. Next week, they follow a similar procedure when they take a trip to Des Moines for a game with Drake.

Comparison of the two local college teams which are to meet Thanksgiving day, is rather difficult at this time. The Billikens look the stronger because of their record against stronger opponents. In four games, St. Louis has won three, their victims having been Cornell College, the University of Missouri and Butler. Their one defeat was at the hands of Oklahoma City University, an unbeaten eleven which last Friday defeated the Oklahoma Aggies, 4-0. The Billikens have scored 54 points to 21 counted by their opponents, Oklahoma City U. having been the only eleven to cross the St. Louis line. Their 54 points were total of eight touchdowns and the making good of six extra-point tries.

Bears' Opposition Weak. Washington is scheduled to appear upon and has scored 55 points in three games to make up a record of two victories and one tie. The Bears also have scored eight touchdowns but the class of their opposition has not been high. The coaches have much to do to make the line function properly. The backfield is deserving of high rating with Sausse, Cochran, Miller, Weingart and Hornsby completing a powerful scoring combination. The trouble with the Washington attack—It showed nothing against William Jewell and not much against the Westminster team. The backs are not helped by the linemen. Plays are smeared before the ball carrier can get started. Sausse does dash away from time to time and Hornsby is invaluable on punts when a few yards are needed for a first down or a score; but, to be successful in their coming four straight Valley games, the Bears must better their line play.

As for the Billikens, they have done pretty well what they were expected to do. They showed both attack and defense against Cornell and were a real football team in Missouri. In looking at observers, they were ragged against Butler, though statistics show they outplayed the Indianapolis eleven throughout in every department. Fumbles hurt the Billikens and prevented their scoring more than one touchdown.

Walsh Has Good Reserves. But the Billikens have shown a real line and a high-class backfield and, best of all, have shown them working together. Also, the St. Louis reserve is of the best, enabling Coach Walsh to use the Notre Dame "shock troops" idea whenever he so desires.

The Billikens now have four games remaining on their schedule and every one is a battle. The Rolla Miners have won all their 1930 games by topheavy scores and are rated as dangerous opponents. Following Rolla come the two Loyolas—Chicago and New Orleans—and neither can be called "easy" by a long shot. The final game, of course, will be with Washington, and on Thanksgiving day, no matter what their previous record, the Bears are first-class fighting football men.

So both Bears and Billikens are scheduled for many a battle in the last half of the season, the Bears being called upon to play their four Valley battles, Oklahoma Aggies, Drake, Grinnell and Creighton, and the Billikens Rolla, and the two Loyolas before the city championship clash on Nov. 27.

KING LEVINSKY WILL MEET EITHER LOUGHRAN OR SLATTERY, NOV. 6

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—King Levinsky, West Side heavyweight prizefighter, will meet Tommy Loughran, former light heavyweight champion, or Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo will meet in one of the 10 rounds on the Stadium's next card, Nov. 6.

Otto Von Porat, Norwegian puncher, and Jack Renault, Canadian heavyweight veteran, will clash in the co-attraction.

Bradbury Wins Shoot.

W. W. Bradbury was victor in the championship shoot of the St. Louis Gun Club yesterday. He scored a total of 197 out of a possible 250. O. B. Franz won the 150 single shot with a score of 92. The handicap shoot from the 25-yard line was won by A. W. Blachett with a score of 50 targets in 150 attempts.

Beating Back.

MISSOURI, first State to close its gates against racing in the reform wave of 25 years ago, is one of the few outposts still resisting a return of this form of sport, business or gambling enterprise, as you may view it. In the quarter century that has elapsed since the "pro gate" and its aftermath wiped out legalized racing, several attempts have been made to legislate it back into favor, without result. Joseph A. Murphy, about 15 years ago, jockeying a racing bill through both houses. It contained a joker which would have permitted a revival of racing with betting, but the Governor of the State vetoed the bill, and the bill was defeated.

Hostility of the Agricultural legislators has prevented city delegations from passing a favorable measure hitherto. But now, it is said, a bill will be introduced at the next meeting of the Legislature which will pass and receive the Governor's O. K. Before such a bill is drawn, those in charge could do more than go to Maryland for a pattern. Maryland has the best conducted meetings under the part-timed racing system in this country.

The Illinois plan has several weaknesses. One of them is lack of complete State mutual inspection. Another is excessive daily taxation, for certain tracks.

No Equality Here.

FAIRMOUNT was forced to pay the same daily tax as Arlington, although the one is a $400,000 plant located on the prairie and the other a $2,500,000 enterprise in a population center of 3,000,000 persons.

If St. Louis and Kansas City tracks of the future are to carry such a burden and still be allowed to collect only 64 percent of the "take," with no "breakage," it is probable that they will share the fate of Fairmount. This track already has changed hands once and has not prospered under either management.

Even with a near free gate the crowd is valued only an average of about $10,000 in the net, which is not within $6000.00 of the daily operating cost of an average track and still be allowed within $15,000 of the average daily overhead of a major Chicago plant.

It is Missouri to have a racing law it should be one under which promoters will be given a fighting chance to survive.

Watch Your Step, Harvard. HARVARD gave Army a real football battle Saturday, but the Crimson is in for a still more bruising encounter next Saturday, it scores mean anything. Dartmouth, the Crimson's next foe, has played four games, has won them all and has amassed a grand total of 235 points, an average of more than 50 per game, without having suffered an opposing score.

The most notable conquest of the New Hampshire college eleven was its crushing defeat of Columbia University, 52 to 0. That is an amazing total to roll up against a major opponent. It unquestionably means that Dartmouth must be reckoned in the national championship ratings this year.

The Richest Stake.

THE Belmont Futurity, widely mentioned as the richest racing stake in the world, called by several thousands of dollars to attain its advertised importance. The Futurity paid the winner $99,000 or thereabouts, while the Agua Caliente Handicap paid more than $100,000 to the owner of Golden Prince, the winner.

Lewis H. Falk, good will ambassador for the $5,000,000 enterprise which includes all the hotel, gambling and race track features at the Caliente resort, now a visitor in St. Louis, told this writer that next year's Handicap, which will be run March 22, will gross about $140,000 and pay more than $120,000 to the winner.

That's an immense fortune to reap with a single victory. Caliente is so remote from established racing centers that it is necessary to bait the hook attractively to induce horsemen to ship across the continent.

Best Equipped Plant.

PROVIDED Missouri racing promoters can afford to it—and when a racing bill is passed—the Agua Caliente track arrangements will be a model to copy. It is the best equipped race track in the country, in more than one respect, namely: It has a chute from which to start flights for such distances as a mile and a half. Each chute has a built-in starting gate. Accidents to horses and jockeys at the post are thus practically eliminated. The starting line is a 25-yard line was won by A. W. Blachett with a score of 50 targets in 150 attempts.

FOUR TEAMS ARE UNDEFEATED IN SOUTHWESTERN

Although the standings in the Southwestern Illinois Football Conference remain unchanged after last week's play, the race for honors is tightening with East St. Louis and Belleville as the leading candidates for the title. Each team has two victories without defeat and Granite City continues to threaten with a single game won and one lost.

Four are in a tie for the top position with perfect records, but the schedule this week will send one team into the second division as Granite City plays Wood River Saturday. The East Siders met the Edwardsville eleven Friday evening and the twice defeated Collinsville outfit goes to Alton on the same night to play Belleville's visit to Madison, Saturday, will complete the week's card.

The East Siders and Belleville are expected to win with little trouble. Last week the Flyers landed Collinsville its second defeat, 15-6, while Belleville won over Alton, 12-0.

Granite City has defeated the Collinsville team for the lone victory and last week trimmed the Beaumont eleven from St. Louis, 14-7. The Kahoks will be slight favorites over Wood River.

Edwardsville will give the East Siders a good game, having lost only to Belleville, but the Flyers will have the wind and skill advantage over Coach Blodgett's crew. The game will mark the end of the night schedule of Edwardsville, the remainder of the games being afternoon affairs.

TEAM STANDINGS.

Team	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
East St. Louis	2	0	0	1,000
Belleville	2	0	0	1,000
Granite City	2	0	0	1,000
Wood River	1	1	0	500
Edwardsville	1	1	0	500
Collinsville	0	2	0	0

43 Elevens in Country Are on Undeclared List

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The national list of unbeaten and untied football teams has dwindled to 43. Although outranked by four other elevens in number of victories, Dartmouth's heavy scoring brigade has assumed the lead in total points. The Indians from Hanover have tallied 425 points in four games, holding their opponents scoreless. Clemson, North Dakota, Oklahoma City and North Dakota State all have won five games without defeat or tie. Ten teams on the list have permitted the opposition no points.

Again in Front.

KNUTE ROCKNE appears again to be headed for the Albert Rockne football award, which annually is given the team making the best record of all major elevens in the United States.

Last year Notre Dame won the championship, and an automobile was awarded to Coach Knute Rockne. The Scandinavian might as well begin enlarging his garage to make room for the 1930 award. The decisive manner in which Rockne's men mauled the powerful Carnegie Tech machine makes it doubtful if Notre Dame can be beaten this year, notwithstanding the "suicide schedule" arranged for the eleven.

Rockne, report says, told the coach of a big university team that he thought his squad had the greatest possibilities of any eleven he had coached while at Notre Dame.

Next Saturday the powerful Pittsburg eleven will face Notre Dame at Pittsburg, and that will be a struggle of major proportions. The Pittsburg eleven owns a remarkable record and in the last seven years has lost only nine games, if memory serves. In that time it has several times been a candidate for national championship recognition.

Pittsburg will bring out all the fight that is in the "Fighting Irish."

Cleveland's defense was not all it should have been against Quinn last week, since a blocked punt caused the Carnation school to go down to a 7-6 defeat. The

My 50 Years in Baseball

CONNIE MACK Manager of the Philadelphia Athletics

Mack Tells How He First Found Out About Al Simmons, Now One of Stars of the Athletics.

By Connie Mack.

UP to 1924, the history of the Athletics had been one of steady, if not pronounced success. Our season, 1 of seven years in the cellar had come to an end with the season of 1921. Then we began clicking by degrees. We landed seventh in 1922, sixth in 1923 and fifth in 1924. That was measurable progress.

There is nothing like encouragement and the fans of Philadelphia will never have forgotten some of the big things we did in laying out enormous sums to get attractive ball players.

Discovers Al Simmons.

IN the season of 1924 I had the good fortune to discover one of the most valuable players of baseball history. That man was Aloysius Harry Szanski, then

My first introduction to Simmons was made by a man in a gray uniform. He was a mail carrier, who one day brought me a letter written in a boyish hand by a youth in Milwaukee who signed his name Al Simmons.

I would give $100 if I had that letter today, but I cleaned out my files once a year and that letter made the waste basket in one shot. I never expected then that Al Simmons would mean anything to me.

Athletics, During Rebuilding Process, Drew Large Crowds

CONNIE MACK, in today's installment of his 50 years in baseball, declares that the Philadelphia club drew larger crowds while he was rebuilding his club than was the case in the seasons of 1919 to 1924, inclusive. When the Athletics formed one of the greatest aggregations of modern history.

Managers never depend on the mails for their ballplayers. They never take youths unless they are carefully scouted by their own representatives.

I forgot all about the ambitious Milwaukee letter writer, who, nevertheless, must have been good, for the Milwaukee club signed him in 1922 and farmed him out to the Aberdeen team in the Dakota League.

He rejoined Milwaukee that September after the Dakota league closed and batted .320 in 19 games.

"Not so hot," mused the late Otto Borchert, owner of the club, who during the winter farmed out Simmons to the Shreveport club of the Texas League for 1923.

KIRKWOOD GAME FRIDAY TO TEST NORMANDY HIGH

This week's county schedule calls for but one important game, the Normandy-Kirkwood contest which will decide whether Normandy will be a challenger for the title. Two other league games are scheduled but should not be close, with Maplewood meeting Ritenour and St. Charles taking on Wellston. "Atlas" county will meet Webster in a non-league contest. Clayton will have an open date this week before meeting Normandy.

Last week Mapleswood surprised by holding Maplewood scoreless, while Clayton City piled up an unexpectedly large score in its defeat of St. Charles, winning by a 27-0 count.

University City is now the favorite to take the county title, or at least to gain the first try, due to its impressive victory over St. Charles. The University City backfield has shown a powerful scoring punch, featured by Alvin Feldman, quarterback and all-county man of last year.

University City also leads the county schools in scoring, having run up a total of 91 points while holding its opponents scoreless. In only one game were the Indians held scoreless, that was a 0-0 game with Missouri Military Academy. Maplewood is not far behind the Indians, having made 67 points to zero for its foes, but it also has one scoreless tie to mar its record, getting that last week in a league encounter with Normandy.

Clayton has kept its record clean so far, but it was eliminated from all consideration for a title by its schedule. The ruling of the County League Football Committee states that a county school must play 60 per cent of its games with league teams, and Clayton has scheduled but three county games in eight contests, so it automatically loses any chance for the title.

Committee Will Handle Plans for A. B. C. Tourney

That St. Louis will make a bid for the American Bowling Congress in 1932 was the announcement made at yesterday's meeting of the Greater St. Louis Tenpin Bowling Association at Statler Hotel. This is in accordance with a previous announcement made at the last national meeting in Cleveland, when a number of delegates told the St. Louisans "that if they would put in a bid for the 1932 tourney the Mound City would get the event."

Executive Committee was selected, and at the first gathering of this body a committee will be named, which will be empowered to enlist outside aid to enable St. Louis to win its first national tournament since 1911.

The next annual meeting of the A. B. C. will be held at Buffalo, March 26.

The Executive Committee was increased from seven members to 12 at the meeting here. The new members are C. F. Bieger, F. Dunkel, F. W. Kiefer, G. J. Grellner and H. A. Stockman. Old members who were re-elected are George Flawick, Gus Klemm, E. R. McElheny, J. McKinley, F. J. Dirksen, F. L. Dodge and W. R. Russell.

Officers of the association for the year will be as follows: F. A. Grodzki, president; J. C. Amelie, secretary; C. H. Stewart, treasurer; A. W. Warder, first vice president; T. P. Carroll, second vice president; A. B. Berns, third vice president; Sid Wilson, fourth vice president; Ed Warren, fifth vice president; and Art Rothwell, auditor.

EAST.—The chase for the East sectional title is still wide open with Army, Dartmouth, Pittsburgh, Cornell, Fordham, New York University and Temple the present leaders. Army gets another test Saturday, meeting Yale. Dartmouth must dispose of Harvard, Fordham and New York University next at New York. Yale, unbeaten by a sectional rival, also rates consideration, as does Western Maryland, conqueror of Georgetown.

BIG TEN.—Northwestern's overwhelming victory over Illinois and Michigan's triumph over Ohio State were the outstanding developments. The only conference games that Saturday pit Purdue against Wisconsin and Michigan against Illinois.

SOUTHERN CONFERENCE.—Alabama leads with three straight victories, the last over Tennessee, which had not lost a game since 1924. Georgia is highly regarded as a result of its smashing defeat of North Carolina. Other leaders include Vanderbilt, Florida, Kentucky, Georgia Tech, Clemson and Tulane. The principal games this week end Alabama against Vanderbilt and Georgia Tech against Tulane.

BIG SIX.—Kansas as a result of victory over the Kansas Aggies, showed the lead with Oklahoma, and Tulane. The principal games this week end Kansas against Texas and Oklahoma against Texas. Both are conference games.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—But little change is noted in the standing of the teams in the Big Ten Conference football race as the result of games played last week. Michigan and Northwestern running true to form and maintaining clean slates. Winners of all games played by conference teams during the week-end were won by the shutouts. Michigan defeated Ohio State, 13 to 0, while Northwestern walloped Illinois, 23 to 0. Minnesota was hard pushed to win over Indiana, 6 to 0, while Purdue had little trouble defeating Iowa, 20 to 0.

In nonconference clashes Wisconsin defeated Pennsylvania, 27 to 0, while Chicago fell before Florida, 19 to 0. Michigan and Northwestern lost the race for the title, each with two games won and none lost. Wisconsin and Minnesota are close behind, each with one victory and no losses.

Only two conference games are scheduled for this week-end, Illinois playing at Michigan and Wisconsin journeying to Purdue. Based on the showing of the four teams so far this season, Michigan should win over Illinois while Wisconsin is expected to emerge on the long end of the count in the Boilermaker encounter. Both games, however, give promise of developing into tough struggles.

Three nonconference games are scheduled. Mississippi will clash with Chicago, while Centre plays Northwestern and Indiana travels to Southern Methodist.

Chicago will likely have the edge of it over Mississippi, while Southern Methodist appears stronger than Indiana. Northwestern may take things easy and not show its full strength against Centre, saving its outstanding players for the remaining conference games. Three teams, Ohio State, Minnesota and Iowa, have no games scheduled for Saturday and will spend the time on the practice field.

MISS SETTER, WINS DERBY TITLE IN DOG FIELD TRIALS

DANSVILLE, N. Y., Oct. 20.—Miss Set, a diminutive white and black setter, weighing but 26 pounds, owned by George Broadard Jr. of Bradford, Pa., and handled by R. C. Strickland of Bolivar, N. Y., was the winner of the Derby championship held under the auspices of the National Pheasant Dog Association.

Dogs under 2 years old competed. The field was composed of setter and pointers hailing from the South as well as the East and the West. Weather conditions were cold and blustery. Birds were plentiful, but owing to high winds the puppies did not show their real ability in handling game.

Miss Set, was easily the class of the lot and while her performance on game was not of championship caliber, she was nevertheless declared the winner, although the judges withheld the title of champion, as they did not consider her to acquire the handsome cup which accompanies the award of the title of Derby champion.

ERODION VICTOR IN $10,000 FRENCH RACE

By the Associated Press.
LONGCHAMPS, France, Oct. 20.—Erodion was first, Romanin second and Bars third yesterday in the running of the Municipal Council Stakes last great autumn fixture handicap. It was raining and the track was sloppy.

Erodion is by Bridane, out of Elnabore Belle and belongs to Robert Laard. The horse was ridden by the French jockey, Brethes, and paid six to one in the betting, taking a $10,000 purse. Erodion's victory was by half a length. Eighteen horses started.

OSKOSH ELVES WIN.

OSKOSH, Wis., Oct. 20.—The Oskosh All-Stars easily defeated the Generals (Ill.) Independents, 14 to 0, in a semipro football game yesterday. The visitors relied on a passing attack which proved futile against the All-Stars.

KANSAS OPPOSES ILLINOIS IN BIG SIX FEATURE BATTLE

The Season Progresses.

"No day without a deed to crown it" might be paraphrased, "No day without a football game." Saturday without a surprise to crown it. Certainly, this 1930 campaign has seen as many upsets as in a canoe meet on choppy water.

Northwestern, supposedly hampered by having had its eleven walloped before the Illinois game, came out of the gate with a victory over the Illinois game, 23 to 0, the worst beating absorbed by the Illinois game. Northwestern is now 2-0, while Illinois is 0-2. The difference between the two teams is not a surprise, but a fact. Northwestern is now 2-0, while Illinois is 0-2. The difference between the two teams is not a surprise, but a fact.

The result of the Notre Dame-Cornell game may have surprised some followers of the game who had read the pre-game statements of Knute Rockne, but as a matter of fact, the 21-6 victory for the South Bend team was what might have been expected. Rockne has mixed his predictions of dire defeat this year with statements that he has one of his best-ever teams and that was a case of choosing which mood was "Rock's" real one.

Princeton Passes.

PRINCETON may once have been a member of the "Big Three," but this year appears to deserve "Little Six" rating. Beaten by Brown a week ago, the Tigers rolled over to a 13-7 defeat before Cornell, and thus passed definitely out of the "big" football picture.

Wisconsin "put one over" on Pennsylvania in convincing 27-0 fashion. Penn had been playing plights against their opponents since before Saturday, but could do nothing with the Badgers.

In the South, Alabama handed Tennessee its first defeat since 1927, 14 to 0. The Commodores, led by "Onward Christian" Cagle, former Army star, startled the section with an 8-6 victory over Louisiana State.

Some Comparisons.

If a football fan wants to travel a long way and get nowhere, Northwestern and Indiana travels to Southern Methodist.

Chicago will likely have the edge of it over Mississippi, while Southern Methodist appears stronger than Indiana. Northwestern may take things easy and not show its full strength against Centre, saving its outstanding players for the remaining conference games. Three teams, Ohio State, Minnesota and Iowa, have no games scheduled for Saturday and will spend the time on the practice field.

In the Prep League.

THE championship of the St. Louis Preparatory League in football may be decided Thursday, when C. B. C. and McBride meet at the Public Schools Stadium. C. B. C. has its first championship eleven in Coach Jack O'Reilly's 1930 combination. This team has won five games and is undefeated. In the only Prep League game played thus far, O'Reilly's boys defeated Western Military Academy. McBride has played only practice games, but also is undefeated and has the scalps of Soltan and Centre to show its prowess. St. Louis University High is so small to figure in the title running this year, and Western also appears to rank below C. B. C. and McBride.

Under the Pump.

Washington star, McBride has had many good teams, and has another this year to battle to retain the championship. As O'Reilly was a St. Louis U. H. player, the old Bears-Billiken rivalry will have a place in Thursday's game.

Grange Stars in Victory for Chicago Bears

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 20.—The Greenbays Packers continued their undefeated march in the National Football League here yesterday by trouncing the Minneapolis Red Jackets, 13 to 0. The Packers scored in the first quarter when Llewellyn went over from the six-yard line after a pass to Nash had put the ball on the position. Dunn kicked goal. The other score came in the same method in the fourth quarter. Dunn passing to McCarty and Molenda bucking over from the three-yard line. Joesting and Barrager starred for Minneapolis.

Grange and Holmer Star.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Walter Holmer, former Northwestern fullback, and Red Grange, Illinois' famous galloping ghost, yesterday ran wild against the Chicago Cardinals in a game that was a preview of the National Pro Football League, a 22 to 6 victory.

Grange did all his work in the period, reeling off runs of 35 and 17 yards from scrimmage, and a touchdown. He got another in the third period and a punt in the final one at the start of the last frame from the three-yard mark. The Cards' only tally came in the last period, when Ernie Nevers took a 14-yard pass from MacDougal and stepped over the Bear goal.

New York Giants Win.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Mixing a sensational overhead attack with a powerful ground game, the New York Giants rode roughshod over the Franklin Yellows Jackets to get a 23 to 0 decision in a National Football League game yesterday.

Fifteen thousand shivering spectators saw the one-sided struggle. For one period only did the invaders manage to hold the Giants' second string backs scoreless. A pass, Moran to Wilson, netted the New Yorkers their first touchdown and a minute after the second session opened and from there on the Yellow Jackets didn't have a chance.

Providence Beats Stapleton.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 20.—Providence defeated Stapleton 7 to 6, here in a National Professional Football League game. Lions scored the Providence touchdown in the first quarter. Stapleton netted a touchdown in the final period on a 27-yard forward pass from Wyckoff to Ken Strong. But Strong's placement for the extra point was short.

Stribling to Fight Friedman in Boston

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20.—An agreement was signed here yesterday for a 18-round bout between W. L. "Young" Stribling and Al Friedman, Boston heavyweight, at the Argonne A. A. in Boston, Oct. 21.

IMPROVED TONE TO MARKET ON CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—A steady advance, most noticeable in the active utilities, gave a distinctly improved tone to the Curb market today. Final prices were the day's highest and there were net gains of one to three points in many prominent shares.

Volume of trading was relatively light, but the support behind the market was in evidence throughout the quiet session, although the movement at no time suggested that the bears were having a difficult time in obtaining stocks for covering purposes.

Net gains of 2 to 3 points appeared in Electric Bond & Share, United Light & Heat, American Gas & Electric, American Superheater and Associated Gas "A" rallied a point.

There were some isolated heavy spots, chiefly among issues that appear on the tape infrequently.

Investment trusts rallied briskly on short covering. United Founders and Goldman-Sachs mounted a point.

Oil Improved. Cities Service and Houston moved up 1/2. Vacuum, after showing a fair rise, fell back to around the Saturday close, but pressure was removed from the group as a whole.

A PIECE —OF— HER MIND

By ELSIE McCORMICK

OLDER STENOGRAPHERS

"FOR some days I have been wanting to write to you about the question of the age limit for stenographers," says an anonymous letter from Staten Island. "There is, however, a seven-room house to be taken care of, and dinner to be prepared, and my two 9-year-old cats, Ethan Allen and Patrick Henry, to be taken for long walks in the woods."

"From the foregoing you may judge that I am that rare bird, a domestic woman. I am, and have been since early this year. Before that I had some 30 years of stenography. And what I want to say is that while I don't doubt conditions are in general as reported, I have never happened to find them so."

"In 1916, at the age of 33, I decided to work my way across the continent. After I had paid up various little outstanding debts, I had just $3 and a ticket to Pittsburgh. With that auspicious start, I went to San Francisco and back in about two years and three months, and incidentally brought a perfectly good husband home with me."

"During that time I learned many things about applying for positions which have been helpful since. I learned that it is a problem to get good stenographers for temporary or substitute work."

"The efficient workers have permanent positions or are looking for them. But if a good stenographer will accept a temporary job, she is very likely to be asked to remain permanently, if a place can be made for her. Such, at least, was my experience."

"Then I learned that in my case the best attitude to take when applying for work was one of rather bored superiority and indifference. That might not work for other people, but it certainly did for me."

"When I go to seek a position, I take more pains with my dress and grooming than ever I do for any social occasion. If suits are being worn, I wear a perfectly pressed suit and an immaculate blouse. I don't know why, but a suit always seems to make a good impression on a prospective employer."

"In filling out an application blank, I am very careful about the matter of age. I figure out just how young I could possibly be and still have had my valuable business experience, and I put down the youngest possible age."

"In 1922 my husband had a bad nervous breakdown, and after a short interlude of being domestic, back to work I went. Always I found a position the day I went to look for one."

"Last February, when I gave up working because of poor health, I was 53 years old and was working five short days a week for $44 a week, the only employee in a small importing business. I had held that position two years and a half, so you see I was not exactly a young girl when I took it."

"This is only one woman's experience, but as an expression from the optimistic ranks of office workers, it may interest you."

The older stenographer sometimes does very well for herself by leaving the country and trying her luck in the tropics or the Far East. While in Asia I met a number of them working their way around the world, taking a job for a time under the walls of the Purple City, dipping down to the Philippines when the weather in China grew cold, and appearing later on in a little sky-blue office building in Penang or in a curved-roofed home in Bangkok.

British and American employers in the Far East seem to have no prejudice against ladies of a so-called interesting age. Nearly all of these wandering stenographers were over 30, and not a few of them would never see 40 again.

Of course, it would be unwise to take a plunge into the East unless one had the return fare to fall back on if necessary. However, a considerable number of these ladies failed to carry out their plan of working their way around the world, on account of marrying en route. Many of the brides I saw in the East displayed the sheen of gray or white hair beneath their wedding veils.

One correspondent writes to suggest that Government positions furnish a good refuge for the older stenographer. Uncle Sam caring but little about the youth of the ladies who cluster around his beard.

Incidentally, several readers have remarked that one thing which makes the older worker persona non grata is the attitude of the younger women.

"Middle-aged workers have often been accused of having bad dispositions," writes K. F. M. "The trouble is that the younger girls assume they are cranks and treat them accordingly. Being always looked upon as a crabby old lady turns a person into one in a surprisingly short time."

"As a stenographer of 45, my advice to the girls in their twenties or thirties is to marry if they can, even though the man they find is not a combination of Lochinvar and Rudy Vallee. They're likely to find a mere office career pretty lonesome and dreary when they grow older, even provided they can hold a job."

Macaroni may be varied in its serving by adding a cup of ground meat to the tomato sauce.

Veteran Actress Recalls High-Lights of a Career On the Stage and Screen

May Robson, Here, Says Denizens of Hollywood Aren't To Be Classed as a Bunch—Some of Them Are Nice.

By MARGUERITE MARTYN

"SHE is just bubbling over with anecdotes accumulated in her 47 years on the stage. Get her to tell you some of them," said Mary Hart, manager of the Casey Players at the Orpheum, speaking of May Robson, visiting star with the stock company. With that purpose I approached the comedienne in her apartment at the Mayfair. "You set me the most difficult task in the world," she responded. Pondering solemnly for several minutes, she added, "I cannot recall a single anecdote. Reminds me of the time a 4-year-old child approached me in a hotel lobby. 'Are you an actress?' she asked. 'Yes,' I replied. She sat staring at me expectantly. 'Well, then, why don't you act?' she demanded."

"You don't act without your cue," continued Miss Robson. "It is the same way with telling stories. They must be prompted. They must be prompted if they are to be apt and have a point. They depend upon the inspiration of the moment, of the audience. However entertaining the play, the audience plays the most important role."

As the present audience I felt my responsibility keenly but I knew she would make it easy for me. And her humor never noticeably at the expense of others. Always at her own.

"You must miss your audience when you are acting before the camera," I ventured.

"Yes," she replied. "That is why the art of acting for the screen never will be the same as acting on the stage. You have not the inspiration of the audience and so much depends upon that. One mechanical defect you may have noticed proves it. Many a good line is lost, many a situation spoiled while the audience is laughing at a line that has gone before. The screen actor does not know how long to wait for a laugh to subside. If he waited, if everything stood still and the laugh did not come, that would be as bad. At recording historical events the pictures are wonderful. The bird's-eye view, for example. And there is drama, comedy, everything you could wish in the way of entertainment in that film. But it isn't acting. Compared to the legitimate theater the pictures are but shadows of your art is almost at the mercy of mechanics."

"It must be nice, though, to play a role once and be done with it, not have to play it over and over until it becomes a monotonous task," I suggested.

"I never become monotonous," she declared. "I played 'The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary' for four years without a break and it never became monotonous. There was the different audience to play up to at each performance, you see. New inspiration every night. When your best line falls of its due response it puts you on your mettle to read it differently and better next time."

"The audience hardly realizes the importance of its role," I advanced.

"No, the dear innocents," which at last reminded her of a story.

"I was playing the part of a slave. I have many slave roles. I love slave parts. And it is one of my most sacred principles always to be prompt, never to keep an audience waiting. It happened right here in St. Louis. I was invited to a dinner party and accepted reluctantly, not until my hostess had promised that dinner should be at 6 o'clock and I should be permitted to withdraw in time to get to the theater. It was in the days of hard shelled spangled evening gowns and I got myself into one of these. I knew that I looked grand and was feeling my oats when I arrived promptly on the dot only to find myself the only guest. Alone I sat for half an hour before the hostess appeared. Then about a quarter of another half hour before the others began to straggle in. Half an hour more elapsed before the soup was served. We had just got to the oysters when I discovered it was time I was at the theater. I rose and began backing out making my apologies over my hostess' protestations. 'I can't let you go without your dinner,' 'I'm not hungry anyway.' 'But the play doesn't begin there until 8:30.' 'But I must dress and I have to make up.' 'Why, Miss Robson, I am sure you look well enough as you are to go on the stage.'"

"Perhaps you are more generous and feel the presence of the audience more than some other actors," I observed.

"I love people. Not crowds. But companionship," and she was reminded of another story.

"Once when there was a great demand for legitimate actors in vaudeville I made the venture and I nearly died of loneliness. I couldn't break my habit of getting to the theater before the performance began and I would have to wait until late for my turn. Meeting a different group of performers each week, I missed the association of a company when one gets to know well. I made friends with a monkey. It was the first time a complaint was ever lodged against me. One night I found a note in my box telling me to report to the manager in answer to a complaint. Indignant I demanded to know how one of these vaudevillians dared to complain of my conduct. It's the owner of the monkey act," said the manager. "He says you've been feeding his monkey and now on the stage the little beast keeps looking for you in the wings and won't do his act."

"WHAT about the people you meet in the movies as companions?" I inquired.

"They are perhaps to be compared to people of the theater as burlesque is to be compared to the legitimate," she said. "But they are not to be classed as a bunch. I have met charming people in Hollywood. Cultured, kindly, interesting, and all as different from one another as persons in any other walk of life."

She had told me of her cottage in Hollywood. "A doll's house just furnished with things out of the attic of my Long Island home. But so charming. I could build a dozen like it and keep them all rented out there."

"The monetary rewards must be a great attraction in the movie," I mused.

"Alas, yes," she responded. "It has got so that the highest award for the most part, the legitimate is being asked to play with the Theater Guild for little or nothing. John Barrymore, it is said, was asked by a manager what was the lowest figure he would consider to play a certain role. 'I can't say,' he telegraphed. 'I haven't been approached by the Theater Guild yet.'"

A part of the legend surrounding Miss Robson is the fact that she was for 20 years a member of Charles Frohman's old Empire Stock company in which so many bright luminaries of the stage were developed at a time when the so-called legitimate theater was in its hey-day. Though it is not so terribly many years ago, she is one of the last of that celebrated galaxy still treading the boards.

She was attired in pinkish beige which sort of echoed her fresh coloring and she radiated vitality and animation such as I am incapable of reproducing. I was moved to remark:

"Doesn't that early mark you made tend to make people think you older than you really are? Isn't your great age rather a myth?"

"I don't know but it is," she replied, smiling gratefully. "My grandson, Robson Gore, now a grown man, once when a tiny child came in with his hand full of pennies. Where did he get them, we demanded to know. We didn't want him accepting pennies from anyone. 'Oh, it's all right,' he explained, 'a very old lady gave them to me. An old lady? Where did she live. What did she look like. Was she as old as I am?' I asked. 'Oh, no, May,' he replied gravely, 'a very old lady but not as old as you are, or course.'"

Capt. Robert Dollar, San Francisco shipping magnate, and Mrs. Dollar have made 35 trips to the Far East.

"I love people. Not crowds. But companionship," and she was reminded of another story.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN

By Mary Graham Bonner

Wonder Five.

THE Little Black Clock was using his magic to turn the time far backward for this adventure he was going to share with John and Peggy.

"We're going to see another one of the Seven Wonders of the world, aren't we?" John asked.

But almost before he had finished his question the scene had changed and the children found themselves in a beautiful grove of trees and there were many statues, and there was a big and very beautiful temple.

"We're going to see a statue in that temple and the statue is called one of the Seven Wonders of the world," said the Little Black Clock.

"Came! We'll see it now. It's a statue of Jupiter Olympus, who first started the great Olympic games."

They went inside the temple and there they saw the statue of a figure of a great and powerful man.

It was the largest statue either of the children had ever seen, and on the head of the statue was a crown of gold.

"Isn't it wonderful!" John breathed.

"The great Phidias has just finished the statue," the Little Black Clock said. "And his name will always be known as one of the great sculptors of the world."

"I had to turn the time back for you to see all this way back to the ancient days of Greece."

John was sure he had never seen anything so wonderful as this statue to Jupiter, or Zeus, as he was also called. Peggy felt that the temple and its mighty columns were like some great and magnificent place of which one might dream when one was dreaming of very magnificent places.

The Little Black Clock let them wander all over and as they came away they kept saying to each other:

"Just think! We've seen five of the Seven Wonders of the world."

Groping
PARENTS frequently become impatient with the apparent aimlessness that characterizes their adolescent children.

They feel that boys and girls who are old enough to take themselves about to evening parties, to study geometry and physics, should have something more on their minds than plans for coming gayety.

As a matter of fact, these young people are not half so careless as they seem. They have only just begun to realize how large and complicated is the world in which they must soon find a place for themselves.

The answer which many of them are making to their new problems is to play harder than ever in order to escape from realities which they do not yet know how to face.

They are for the most part, groping about with astenishing little real help from anyone, and for all their gaiety they really are not very happy.

Perhaps the best way for boys and girls to become definite and purposeful is through living with intense satisfaction in the here and now.

School life, lessons, social gayety, these are not half so unrealistic to the adolescent, and as such they rightfully are of the utmost importance to him. Hobbies, handicrafts and skills which may seem to us so useless in the practical world, often are the avenue through which they find what they really wish to do.

Above all, we must not be discouraged if, while yet in their teens, our boys and girls seem to have no definite objective in view. The teens are the years of discovery and of experimenting with life.

Youth needs time in which to find itself, and all the opportunity and sympathetic help which we can give.

FLOWER GARDEN IN THE HOUSE

SOME ONE started the idea of growing old-fashioned flowers in window boxes and other receptacles indoors and out, and now it's a fad in the cities and it's also quite a fad to grow them in the smaller towns too where there are gardens but not estates and so not too much room. They are loved, these old-fashioned blooms, not only for their beauty and primitiveness but also for their fragrance reminiscent to many who are growing them and for their novelty and delight to others.

There are, first of all, those exquisite little dwarf roses, cinnamon roses, spicy and pungent as their names implies, and they grow and grow indoors or out. Everyone who has had them loves them and, incidentally, preserves their petals for potpourri, just as everybody used to do in the queer '30s, so we must be getting queer again.

Sweetgrass makes a charming indoor decoration. It's particularly lovely in one of those terracotta Roman boxes, or in any long, oval-shaped box, although, strange as it may seem, the sweetgrass, like the striped grass, somehow requires an ornamental box to set it off.

Those Italian flower boxes which are to be found in the shops in a variety of more or less ornamental effects are charming for the purpose and so are the plaster ones of imitation terracotta.

That tall sweet clover which lovers of the country adore always is another new-old indoor plant decoration much liked and used now. It was a favorite with the grandmothers who owned and (er) with such care and loved so devotedly their "grandmother's gardens" and who could tell you how they made their perfumes from their gardens and the fields.

It is well to remember in planning for a garden indoors that insulation is the motif sought for—or should be—not mousing. For outdoors a jumble of flowers or ferns or grasses, a riot of color, is charming, but for house decoration the Japanese idea of a few blossoms, a few fronds or a single branch of blossoms is far more artistic than a crowded lot of them.

So even with the ferns or the grasses, arrange them carefully with an eye to showing their contours; arrange them very particularly with a regard for the type of container you are using. By his I mean regard your container and your flower or grass arrangement as one, not as separate motifs.

Go anywhere in the country and you'll find red geraniums arranged in a flower pot or in a straight vase in a window-box until the poor red geranium has acquired a reputation for being just "common." But take an uncommon dish, perhaps one of American pottery of an old ivory tone, say 15 or 20 inches square and anything over 12 inches deep, curved and with a rounded base, and plant in it a geranium, not necessarily a red one, for there are innumerable lovely shades from which to make a choice. Then, as it grows, cut its leaves and shape it Japanese fashion—a long, thin, irregular main stem, a branch with a few leaves on here, another further down, or if you wish, it can be shaped to form a lovely leafy ball, with the blossoms, as they come, giving it gorgeous spots of color, and the whole making a incomparably striking decoration for any room in the house.

MACARONI Mac's
Energy Trio
By The American Beauty Macaroni Company

An invitation to school! Whoops! The Energy Trio from the American Beauty Macaroni family don't need an alarm clock to get them up on time.

Macaroni Mac is surprised to see many boys and girls coming late. Looking so tired. "Not enough energy food... they could be as strong as we three."

The teacher started to talk about the right kind of food to build sturdy bodies and alert minds. She introduced the Energy Trio as good examples of health.

At recess Spaghetti Joe showed the boys twisting tricks. And Macaroni Mac did his double roll and flop. It's great if you can do it—if not, it's only a flop.

In the cooking class Egg Noodle Nell told the girls how easy it is to cook American Beauty Macaroni. "Even a child can do it," she said.

So these very young "housewives" would know what to ask for at their grocers, Egg Noodle Nell shows them the American Beauty package that costs 10¢.

THE SCARAB MURDER CASE

AS VAN DINE

CHAPTER XV.

"THE front door had been unlatched," Markham offered, "it might conceivably have been some one from the outside."

"Your hypothetical thug?" asked Vance dryly. "Dropped in here, perhaps, for a bit of caffeine stimulant before tackling his victim in the museum." He did not give Markham time to reply, but went to the door. "Come. Let's chivy the occupants of the drawing-room. We need more data—oh, many more data."

He led the way upstairs. As he walked along the heavily carpeted upper hall toward the drawing room door, the sound of a very high-pitched voice came to us. Mrs. Bliss was speaking, and I caught the final words of a sentence. "... should have waited."

Then Scarlett answered in a hoarse, tense tone. "My! You're insane..."

Vance cleared his throat, and there was silence.

Before we entered the room, however, Hennessey beckoned mysteriously to Heath from the front of the hall. The Sergeant stepped forward past the drawing room door, and the rest of us, sensing some revelation, followed him.

"You know that bird Scarlett who you told me to let go," Hennessey reported in a stage whisper, "well, just as he was going out he turned suddenly and ran upstairs. I was going to chase him, but since you o. k'd him, I thought it was all right. A couple minutes later he came down and went away without a word. Then I got to thinking that maybe I should follow him upstairs..."

"You acted correctly, Hennessey," Vance spoke before the Sergeant could reply. "No reason why he shouldn't have gone upstairs—probably went there to speak to Doctor Bliss."

Hennessey appeared relieved and looked hopefully toward Heath, who merely granted disinterestedly.

"AND, by the by, Hennessey," Vance continued, "when the Egyptian came up-stairs the first time, did he go directly to the floor above, or did he tarry in the drawing-room en route?"

"He went in and spoke to the museum."

"Did you hear anything he said?"

"Now, it sounded to me like he was parleying in one of those foreign languages."

Vance turned to Markham and said in a low voice: "That's why I sent Hani up-stairs alone. I had an idea he'd grasp the opportunity to commune with Mrs. Bliss." He spoke to Hennessey. "How long was Hani in the drawing-room?"

"A minute or two maybe—not long." The detective was growing apprehensive. "Shouldn't I have let him go in?"

"Oh, certainly. And then what happened?"

"The guy comes out the room, looking worried, and goes up-stairs. Pretty soon he comes down again carrying a tin can in his hand. What you got there, Abdullah?" I asked. "Something Mr. Vance sent me to get. Any objection?" he asked. "Not if you're on the level; but I don't like your looks," I answered. And then he gives me the high ball and goes down-stairs."

"Perfect," Hennessey. Vance nodded encouragingly and, taking Markham by the arm, walked back toward the drawing-room. "I think we'd better question Mrs. Bliss."

As we entered the woman rose to greet us. She had been sitting by the front window, and Salvatore was leaning against the folding doors leading to the dining-room. They had obviously taken these positions when they heard us in the hall, for as we came up-stairs they had been speaking at very close quarters.

"We are sorry to have to annoy you, Mrs. Bliss," Vance began, courteously. "But it's necessary that we question you at this time."

SHE waited without the slightest movement or change of expression, and I distinctly received the impression that she was resentful of our intrusion.

"And you, Mr. Salvatore," Vance went on shifting his gaze to the man, "will please go to your room. We'll confer with you later."

Salvatore seemed disconcerted and worried. "May I not be present—?" he began.

"You may not," Vance cut in with unwonted severity; and I noticed that even Markham was somewhat surprised at his manner. "Hennessey," Vance called toward the door, and the detective repeated almost simultaneously, "Escort this gentleman to his room, and see that he communicates with no one until we send for him."

Salvatore, with an appealing look toward Mrs. Bliss, walked out of the room, the detective at his side.

"Try be seated, madam," Vance approached the woman and, after she had sat down, took a chair facing her. "We are going to ask you several intimate questions, and if you really want the murderer of Mr. Kyle brought to justice you will not resent those questions but will answer them frankly."

"The murderer of Mr. Kyle is a despicable and unworthy creature," she answered in a hard, strained voice, "and I will gladly do anything I can to help you." She did not look at Vance, but concentrated her gaze on an enormous honey-colored carnelian ring of intricate design which she wore on the fore-finger of her right hand. Vance's eyebrows went up slightly.

"You think, then, we did right in releasing your husband?" I could not understand the purpose of Vance's question; and the woman's answer confused me still further. She raised her head slowly and regarded each one of us in turn. Finally she said:

"Doctor Bliss is a very patient man. Many people have wronged him. I am not even sure that Hani is altogether loyal to him. But my husband is not a fool—he is even too clever at times. I do not put murder beyond him—" or beyond any one, for that matter. Murder may sometimes be the highest form of courage. However, if my husband had killed Mr. Kyle he would not have been stupid about it—certainly he would not have left evidence pointing to himself. . . . She glanced again at her folded hands. "But if he had been contemplating murder, Mr. Kyle would not have been the object of his crime. There are others whom he had more reason for wanting out of the way."

"Hani, for instance?"

"Perhaps."

"Or Mr. Salvatore?"

"Almost any one but Mr. Kyle," the woman answered, without a perceptible modulation of voice.

"Anger could have dictated the murder," Vance spoke like a man discussing a purely academic topic. "If Mr. Kyle had refused to continue financing the excavations—"

"YOU do not know my husband. He has the most equable temper I have ever seen. Passion is alien to his nature. He makes no move without long deliberation."

"The scholar's mind," Vance murmured. "Yes, I have always had that impression of him." He took out his cigarette-case. "Do you mind if I smoke?"

"Do you mind if I do?" Vance leapt to his feet and extended his case. "Ah—Reggie!" She selected a cigarette. "You are very fortunate, Mr. Vance. There were none left in Turkey when I applied for a shipment."

"I am able to offer you one," Vance lighted her cigarette and resumed his seat. "Who, do you think, Mr. Bliss, was most benefited by Mr. Kyle's death?" He put the question carelessly, but I could see he was watching her closely.

"I couldn't say," the woman was clearly on her guard.

"But surely," pursued Vance, "some one benefited by his death. Otherwise he would not have been murdered."

"That point is one the police should ascertain. I can give you no assistance along that line."

"It may be that the police have satisfied themselves, and that I merely asked you for corroboration." Vance, while courteous, spoke with somewhat pointed significance. "Lookin' at the matter coldly, the police might argue that the sudden demise of Mr. Kyle would remove a thorn from Hani's side and end the so-called desecration of his ancestors' tombs. Then again, the police might hold that Mr. Kyle's death would enrich both you and Mr. Salvatore."

"I expected the woman to resent this remark of Vance's, but she only glanced up with a frigid smile and said in a dispassionate tone: "Yes, I do believe there was a will naming Mr. Salvatore and myself as the principal beneficiaries."

"Mr. Scarlett informed us to that effect," Vance returned. "Quite understandable, don't you know. . . . And by the by, would you be willing to use your inheritance to perpetuate Dr. Bliss' work in Egypt?"

"Certainly," she replied with unmistakable emphasis. "If he asked me to help him, the money would be his to do with as he desired. . . . Especially now," she added.

VANCE's face had grown cold and stern, and after a quick upward glance he dropped his eyes and contemplated his cigarette.

Markham rose at this moment. "Who, Mr. Bliss," he asked, with what I regarded as unnecessary aggression, "would have had an object in attempting to saddle your husband with the crime?"

The woman's case faltered, but only momentarily. "I'm sure I don't know," she returned. "Did someone really try to do that?"

"You suggested as much yourself, madam, when the scarab pin was called to your attention. You said quite positively that someone had placed it beside Mr. Kyle's body."

"What if I did?" She became

CRYSTAL Comes Into Its OWN

Cuff-link likenesses of dogs owned by Albert Payson Terhune.

BECAUSE of the modern Jeweler's ingenuity, crystal has reappeared importantly in his recent creations and is enjoying a great vogue among the ultra-art. So congenially does crystal fit into the mode that it has already been widely imitated in crystal—a composition which makes satisfactory novelty bracelet and bag ornaments but which lacks the water-clear quality of crystal and which cannot be cut to have the sparkle and the brilliance of the quartz substance.

Crystal is in no way relegated to less expensive jewelry. It may be cut in the same shapes as diamonds, the chief visual difference being caused by its refractive qualities. Crystal serves as a perfect "base" for large and important designed pieces. Since the diamond has its least brilliance when cut into baguettes—a shape in high favor at this time—rock crystal treated in the same manner adequately replaces the precious stone in elaborately designed pieces of jewelry, bringing down their cost very considerably. Without doubt important contributing factors to the present vogue of crystal are the popularity of large jewels and the quality of its smooth surface, which, either clear or frosted, fluted or plain, lends itself so gracefully to modernistic treatment. Crystal is also a substance which combines with many others. Frosted or clear, it presents a perfect background for diamonds and for the colored stones such as rubies, emeralds and sapphires, and is an harmonious attribute to onyx, jade, carnelian and the colorful agates. The icy glitter of diamonds against the opaque frosted crystal has proved particularly desirable in brooches, watches and pendants, and because it contributes to the effect of coolness this combination has been appropriately stressed in summer jewelry.

CRYSTAL has entered into the world of modern art by another door as well. In fact, a veritable connoisseurship exists among those who have become interested in painted crystals, for here the natural appeal of rock crystal is combined with the art and the individuality of the painter.

The first artist to devote himself to crystal painting was an Englishman, Charles Cook. His pendant, now famous, depicting a hummingbird and a flower, is at present a prized possession of Chapin Marcus of New York City, as genuine specimens of the crystals painted by Cook are now of great value.

suddenly defiant. "My initial instinct was naturally to defend my husband."

"Against whom?"

"Against you and the police."

"Do you regret that 'initial' instinct?" Markham put the question brusquely.

"Certainly not!" The woman stiffened in her chair and glanced surreptitiously toward the door. Vance noted her action and drawled:

"It is only one of the detectives in the hall. Mr. Salvatore is for corroboration. . . . In his boudoir—quite out of hearing."

Quickly she covered her face with her hands, and a shudder ran over her body.

"You are torturing me," she moaned.

"And you are watching me through your fingers," said Vance with a mild grin.

She rose swiftly and glared ferociously at him.

"Please don't say 'How dare you?' Vance spoke banteringly. "The phrase is so trite. And do sit down again. . . . Hani informed you, I believe—in your native language—that Dr. Bliss was supposed to have been given opium in his coffee this morning. What else did he tell you?"

"That was all he said." The woman resumed her seat; she appeared exhausted.

The Limpid Quartz Offers New Possibilities in Modernistic Art Jewelry, While Mystic Scrying Has by No Means Lost Its Vogue

beveled crystal is backed. Then one may have such a crystal-encased portrait cleverly set into a purse-lock pendant or cigarette case.

Sport subjects are favorites with painted crystal fanciers. In addition to those already mentioned, fish, fowl, game, flags and special insignia are frequently shown. These are put to numerous uses—sleeve-links, vantiies, bracelets and charms being among the most popular. It is generally conceded that the best painted crystals are produced in England, where—perhaps because the art was fostered by an English artist and because of the great interest shown in the work by British sportsmen—the artist-craftsmen excel.

THE word "crystal" is derived from the Greek, meaning clear ice or frozen water. But so deep in antiquity lie the roots of the romance of the substance that one can only guess at the many uses to which it was put during the more obscure and far removed periods.

One of the most primitive examples of rock crystal art is found in a necklace of very crude beads, product of an ancient culture which flourished at one time in Central America. This is now in the American Museum of Natural History. Even today, in the keeping of a dateless tradition, Tibetan monks take crystal or tourmaline spheres to top their hats, while wearing necklaces of crystal beads combined with tourmaline, amethyst, jade or coral, the substance used to alternate with the crystal denoting the religious rank of the wearer.

This limpid quartz was also used for cups, bowls and other vessels before glass was invented. In China the first carvings in crystal took the form of scales for the dignitaries of the land. Later, the substance was made into furniture sets for the royal family, and subsequently appeared elaborately carved in the forms of idols and good luck symbols. Even today most crystal mined the world over is sent to China, for carving, as Oriental lapidaries excel in the art; but in the finishing of the crystal sphere the Japanese are considered the greater craftsmen. Exquisite carvings in rock crystal were produced in the imperial lapidary works in Ekaterinburg, in the Province of Perm, Russia. Seals, vases and cups were decorated with conventional design, sensitively rendered. Most of the pieces which have reached this country in the famous Tiffany-Morgan collection make use of architectural forms and show a beautiful appreciation of proportion. ## Tired?

PRECISELY what does a person mean when he says he is tired?

This question has fascinated all students of the human body, and the answers offered to this query are numerous and complex.

In most instances, the term "tired" is used to indicate muscular fatigue. During muscular work a number of very complex chemical changes take place within the muscles and the body, giving rise to waste and so-called fatigue products. Among these are carbon dioxide, lactic acid and other acids.

It is the accumulation of these substances in the body which gives rise to the sensation of tiredness.

This was demonstrated in an experiment performed on two dogs. One dog was worked until he manifested unmistakable evidence of fatigue.
